Bunting Keeps Tiny Firm Busy

They're busy with the Coronation bunting at William Parrack's tiny (17 employees) textile printing firm in Rochford, Essex County, Eng. Parrack hopes that by April he will have completed the job of turning out 10 miles of bunting and banners. They will decorate the route Queen Elizabeth will travel on the way to her coronation. Above, four women begin hanging up the first long line of monumental wash. All of the flags must be dried outside as the small plant has no drying room. For the next few months, neighbors will see Union Jacks, red-and-white ensigns, and the colors of Scotland, Ireland and Wales flutter from the long lines each day.

Naguib Moves to Oust U.K. Forces From Egypt

Strong Man of Nile Forms 'Liberation Society'

By L. S. CHAKALES

CAIRO (AP)—Premier Mohammed Naguib today assailed British policy in Egypt and proclaimed a "Liberation Society" to achieve unity with the Sudan and evacuation of all foreign forces from the Nile valley.

A crowd estimated at 100,000 in Cairo's Liberation Square heard the soldier-premier declare that the end of British imperialism in the Nile lands is near.

As a 21-gun salvo boomed, the crowd repeated after him a Liberation Society oath asking Allah for mercy on "those who prefer death in their struggle for liberty rather than to live a mean life under slavery." The oath pledged the "utmost to establish our nation's future life on a new basis free of slavery and selfishness under the aegis of justice."

Naguib's speech, broadcast through the country, and a military review launched a four-day "liberation" celebration marking the army's coup which last July 23 overthrew King Farouk.

Green and white Egyptian flags bedecked the streets. Jet planes and bombers roared overhead. The city's 1,000 mosques were to remain open day and night to shelter pilgrims with no other place to sleep.

NO VIOLENCE

Police and soldiers, many of them armed with sub-machine-guns, patrolled the city in cars and trucks, but there was no violence.

The celebration came less than 24 hours after Naguib and fellow army officers controlling the government with him ordered another army officer shot on a charge of plotting an armed forces rebellion against the government.

Naguib shouted to the vast throng today that Britain's policy since occupying the country in 1882 had been to create dissension among the Egyptians so the British could dominate the Nile Valley. He asserted that the new Liberation Society would achieve the unity of all factions of Egypt and the "unity of Egypt with the Sudan."

5 Dead, 1 Safe As Car Plunges Into B.C. Lake

Auto Strikes Slide 3 Miles From Hope

HOPE, B.C. (BUP)—Five carpenters drowned today when their car smashed into a rockslide in a pelting rain storm and plunged off the Trans-Canada Highway into tiny Lake of the Woods, three miles east of Hope.

The driver, Matthew Offer of Hope, was thrown clear before his 1946 sedan crashed into 15 feet of water about 7 a.m. He walked to the nearby resort settlement named after the lake and reported the tragedy.

Police recovered the bodies of the five victims: Mathias Sbenrood, Mas Mukaida, Zion Edward Seward, Minto George Currie and John Fraser MacPhail, all of Hope.

ROAD SLIPPERY

Several days of heavy rain caused the rockslide that the car hit moments after topping a crest overlooking the lake. The rain had partly turned to snow and the highway near the entrance to the Fraser Canyon was slippery.

Police said Offer, driving in early morning dusk with his lights on, could not stop in time to avoid rocks strewn on the highway by the slide. The car hit a big boulder and toppled into the lake.

Hope is 99 miles east of Vancouver.

The carpenters were en route to Chaote, where they were employed on a construction project in connection with a new mining development of Western Nickel Ltd.

DRUGGIST MAKES HEIRS WAIT UNTIL 'AGE OF COMMON SENSE'

LEEDS, Eng. (Reuters)—Gordon Waterworth, a druggist who died last November, didn't want his two children to fall prey to fortune-hunters when they came into their £12,500 inheritance. In his will, published today, he arranged for the money to be held for them until they reach "an age of common sense"—50 years. The son and daughters are 28 and 26.

'DISGUSTING AND DANGEROUS'

Duncan Tract Irks British

Labor MP Asks Action Against Pamphlet Published on Island

LONDON (Reuters)—Home Secretary David Maxwell Fyfe Thursday condemned an anti-Semitic pamphlet circulating here from Duncan, B.C., as "obnoxious," but added he did not see any action he could take against it.

Labor member Anthony Greenwood had asked in the House of Commons if the government would take action on the matter.

The pamphlet, entitled "Plans of the Synagogue of Satan," contains anti-Jewish propaganda "of a disgusting and dangerous kind," Greenwood said.

There is no name in the copies, but they are postmarked Duncan, B.C.

Greenwood said he and other members of parliament were among those who received them.

The Home Secretary said he did not think "this anonymous and obnoxious rigmarole represents a danger which calls for further action on my part."

ANTI-JEWISH

The eight-page pamphlet, Greenwood said, purports to provide a report from behind the Iron Curtain, in which rabbis are said to be planning to produce a third world war, at the end of which the Jews will be triumphant.

"One of the objects of this is said to be that white and black races will be forced to intermarry," he said, adding:

"It is quite a fantastic document. I hope the Canadian authorities will keep the matter under consideration. I don't know if there is anything they can do about it."

RCMP headquarters here said they had no knowledge of the pamphlet. Attorney-General Robert Bonner was in Vancouver and could not be reached for comment.

Taximen May Ask Right to Deliver Liquor

Late-Hour Opening Changes Situation

Taxi-firms in Victoria may ask government permission to make deliveries of liquor and beer to private homes.

The B.C. Liquor Act prohibits taxis from transporting liquor.

Taxi drivers are allowed, however, to purchase any other kind of article from a retail outlet and deliver it, charging the regular taxi fare for the service.

J. W. Dobbie, partner in Black & White Taxi, said today representatives of several cab companies here had met to discuss the matter.

"We feel that we should be allowed to make liquor deliveries too. Now that a liquor store is being kept open to 11 p.m., we should be allowed to extend our service," he said.

"A person having a party could phone a taxi office and ask that a bottle be bought for him and delivered."

Mr. Dobbie conceded that the matter of persons on the government interdict list seeking to take advantage of the service might be a problem but he thought this could be overcome.

"When a person phoned, we could take their name as well as address and give it to the liquor store attendant when the purchase was made. They could check the interdict list there to see everything was all right."

B.C. Guards Against Influenza Outbreak

Warning Given By Provincial Health Officer

The provincial health department has alerted local health agencies throughout British Columbia to be on the lookout for any abnormal increases in influenza cases.

Flu' in recent days has laid low millions of persons in the United States and Great Britain, but has not appeared in strength in B.C.

A health department official said today all health services have been notified to watch the situation closely. Local agencies, he said, are working closely with local doctors and hospitals so that an increase in 'flu cases will be immediately noticed.

"We are prepared in B.C.," he declared. "To date, we haven't recorded any unusual quantity of 'flu cases—just the normal seasonal amount."

Other authorities warned citizens to avoid over-fatigue as one good safeguard against infection.

"If either a youngster or an adult contact virus infection, bed is the best cure of all," one authority said.

NORTH EUROPE, ENGLAND, HIT BY EPIDEMIC

LONDON (AP)—Epidemics of influenza, mostly mild in nature, gripped parts of Europe and much of the U.S. today but health authorities said there is little to worry about yet.

Britain's health ministry reported scattered epidemics of mild virus influenza in south and central England, but nothing like 1951 when more than 8,000 died.

Deaths in 60 major English cities during the week ended Jan. 10 numbered 51 compared to 886 deaths in the corresponding week of 1951, the epidemic year. The health ministry said fatalities thus far this winter are only slightly above normal.

Flu in West Germany hit hardest in Bavaria where deaths now total 20. Many thousands of others are ill.

Similar conditions prevail in France but there are no official figures on fatalities or the number of cases. A few days ago, it was unofficially estimated that half of the students in Paris schools were absent and ill with flu.

Danish health officials said there is no real epidemic in Denmark yet but warned the number of cases is growing and the situation may become serious.

Reports from Belgium, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Italy and Switzerland, said there were no epidemics and the number of cases was normal for the time of year. The Pope was stricken with flu in the Vatican Thursday but was receiving callers today.

Flu—or what feels like flu—has spread to more than half of the 48 states in the U.S. but outbreaks have been generally mild.

New Vaccine Being Tried Across Canada

A test on 100 persons with a new flu vaccine began in Victoria today, Dr. J. L. Gayton, city and Esquimalt medical health officer, reported.

The new vaccine is designed to protect Canadians against influenza of a type raging in Europe and parts of the United States and is being tested across Canada.

Dr. Gayton added that at present there is no evidence of the "epidemic type of influenza" here.

According to Dr. Gayton the vaccine is a "mixture of three types of influenza virus." The test is being made "on young adults," selected at random.

"The vaccine has been tested before in parts of the United States and the results are encouraging," he stated.

NOT GENERAL USE

Dr. Gayton stressed, however, that health authorities here have not the vaccine for general use—merely for the test.

At Toronto, Dr. R. D. Defries, a University of Toronto scientist, announced that the new vaccine against influenza is being tested on university students.

Defries, director of the school of hygiene, said tests on the first groups would be finished in April and if the vaccine was successful it would be more widely available.

Church, State Deny Pact Between Catholics, C. of E.

LONDON (AP)—Foreign office and church officials today denied reports published in Rome that Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery is negotiating a pact between the Church of England and the Vatican.

A Foreign Office spokesman said "We certainly do not know a thing about it." A Church of England spokesman said "it does not even begin to make sense."

The report, published in Rome's Momento Sera, said Montgomery "reportedly has the official capacity of a secret extraordinary ambassador from the government of London to the Holy See."

Fuel Dealers See No Crisis From Strikes

Only a combination of rail and coal miners' strikes and a prolonged cold spell could upset the apparently stable fuel situation in Victoria, according to local dealers.

In Vancouver, dealers fear that light stockpiles occasioned by the mild winter might be threatened if Alberta coal miners walk off the job Feb. 16, and a railway strike breaks out Feb. 2.

"We have enough coal on hand for normal requirements," said one Victoria dealer. "Only a really cold February could cause us trouble."

Another was even more optimistic.

"Once we are through February we are safe enough," he said. "We have a three-week supply on hand and are anxious to get rid of it before the mild weather comes."

Oil fuel supplies are not threatened, since a large part of it is carried by ship from California to Vancouver refineries, then by barge to Victoria.

Steady Rains Bring Floods To Low Lands

Persistent rains this month have saturated low-lying areas of Saanich. Hundreds of acres in Heals Valley, Sluggett Valley and along the peninsula's east side, as well as many small holdings, are under water.

Steady rain that dropped 1.7 inches on the district Thursday and early today flooded Panama Flats to their greatest depth so far this winter.

"There is also some water in the Marigold and Blenkinsop areas, but no one has been inconvenienced yet," said Henry Blakeny, superintendent of works.

City, Oak Bay and Esquimalt reported only a few flooded basements; no general flooding.

Rainfall to date this month is now 8.37 inches. Normal for the whole month is 4.25 inches.

A few showers are predicted for tonight and there will be intermittent rain Saturday, according to the weather forecast. Winds will be light and temperatures will be between 40 and 47 degrees.

Editor of The Times To Cover Coronation

Bruce Hutchison, editor of The Times, will cover the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth for this paper.

Mr. Hutchison leaves Victoria Feb. 4 on a trip to Britain and other European countries that will take upwards of four months.

He will be in London in the early part of June and will file dispatches to The Times describing all the colorful events associated with the Coronation and their significance to Canadians.

It will be the second Coronation covered by Mr. Hutchison.

In 1937 he was in London for the crowning of the late King George VI. In addition to his stories in The Times he made a special broadcast direct from London describing the scene for all Canadians over the CBC network.

U.S. Airmen May Face Spy Charges

TOKYO (UP)—American officials said today that Chinese Communists might be laying the groundwork for a propaganda "spy trial" of 11 American airmen shot down in a B-29 near the Manchurian border Jan. 12.

Three other crew members were killed when the plane was attacked. The 11 survivors parachuted to safety.

Peiping radio, Red propaganda organ, said the plane was shot down over Korea and that the 11 officers and men who parachuted out of it were "special agents sent by the U.S. government" to "organize sabotage."

The U.S. Air Force said the plane was attacked by enemy fighters 15 miles south of the Yalu River, well within Korean territory, but could have crash-landed in Manchuria after being crippled and downed by enemy bullets.

Van Fleet Will Retire March 31

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The army announced Friday that Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander in Korea will retire on March 31.

Last Two Jewish Community Heads Flee Iron Curtain

BERLIN (CP) — East Germany's last two Jewish community leaders fled to West Berlin today.

They stayed behind until the last moment to help organize group escapes of other Jews in East Germany, a Jewish spokesman said here.

The spokesman refused to identify the two community heads.

All six Jewish leaders in East Germany now have reached West Berlin. Four others fled here Jan. 14.

The Russian zone's drive toward complete bolshevism also sent two more East German government officials fleeing to West Berlin today. They had served as connecting links between the Red regime and the Protestant and Catholic churches.

They were identified by refugee headquarters as a Mr. Bernhard, of the Eastern Christian Democrats CDU, and a Mr. Liebrecht of the Liberal Democratic party.

Churchill Winds Up Caribbean Holiday

NEW YORK (AP)—Winston Churchill bundled together his papers, his paints and his family today and boarded the liner Queen Mary for England after a West Indies vacation.

Sloan 'Embarrassed' By Political Talk

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan said today a report that he would be asked to lead the B.C. Liberal party had appeared in print without his knowledge and had "distressed" him in his position as head of the bench.

The chief justice issued a brief statement in reference to the report, which appeared in Thursday's Times stating that the rank and file of the party are talking of a "draft Sloan" move at their convention in Vancouver Feb. 27 and 28, to choose a new leader.

Mr. Sloan made no direct comment, in his statement, as to what his reaction might be to the "draft" movement, other than to point out that before he could entertain anything of the sort he would first have to resign from the Appeal Court.

In Liberal circles supporters of the "Sloan for leader" move were quick to point out that his statement did not close the door on the possibility he might accept the leadership if the convention asks him.

Full text of Mr. Sloan's statement follows:

"I was distressed by the story in the Times wherein I was mentioned as a possible leader of the Liberal party in this province. I was not consulted and knew nothing of it before its publication. Since my appointment to the bench I have, of course, completely disassociated myself from politics. While I cannot stop rumors and speculation, no word or action of mine has given countenance to such rumors, nor encouragement to such speculation.

"If I should ever seek political preferment, which is very far indeed from my desire and intention, I shall consider it my first duty to resign from the bench.

"I earnestly hope that there be no further publication of political speculations concerning myself, which as far as I am concerned are without foundation, for the reason that these comments can result only in embarrassment to me in my present position."

ITS WINGS FLAP

Strange Craft Ready to Test

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—A flying machine with moving wings is ready for a trial flight at this southeastern Alberta city.

Called an ornithopter, the 280-pound machine made of metal and balsa wood has two sets of wings.

"It will be the closest approximation to bird flight ever designed by man," said James E. Caldwell, the inventor-engineer.

It was constructed by Hartley D. Shannon, a Medicine Hat business man who is an aeronautical engineer. It will be piloted by William Francis of Medicine Hat Air Services on its test flights.

"In principle," said Mr. Shannon, "If this model is what we hope it is, the cost of air transport would be cut down to the cycle class."

In appearance the 'thopter is radical in design from modern airplanes, helicopters and gliders. Its main feature consists of the four wings or flaps which simulate a bird's locomotive and gliding power. Each wing is eight feet long and five feet from lead to tail edge.

The pilot sits front and centre and there are two wings on each side of him. The wings move one foot both up and down from normal position. Behind the pilot's seat is a 12-horsepower motor which Mr. Shannon says is more than ample for the lifting power required.

Strange Virus Claims Sixth Tacoma Infant

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A deadly virus which strikes down its victims within 48 hours claimed another child here, the sixth Tacoma infant to die of the infection in the last month. Dr. Frank James, Pierce county coroner, said he "was almost positive that the three-month-old child was the victim of a combination of "virus pneumonia with a superimposed pneumococcic lobar pneumonia" that has claimed five other tots, all under six months of age.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

There's been a chummy, club-car atmosphere in the 12.10 Hillside bus passing our office these last few days. You climb aboard, walk to the back and find yourself among a bunch of young men and women chatting and eating lunch.

They tell me the Normal students have been "observing" at S. J. Willis Junior High morning sessions. Getting back to Mt. Tolmie in time for afternoon classes doesn't leave much time for a leisurely meal on the campus. More power to them if they eat as they travel. Anyhow, I always figured dinner on a train was one of life's minor luxuries.

Stott

Eating on the bus hasn't all the elegance or all the amenities of a swank diner. Just the same, it can rouse powerful appetites in the people who are also traveling and have another 20 minutes run before they reach their own tables.

You look at the young people, envy their lunches and feel another small twinge of envy for their apparent lack of inhibitions. They're not stuffy.

Them Dumb Dames

You smile as one of the more impatient males jumps off at a transfer stop, is followed by another, and then watches the bus roll away with the girls still aboard. You smile until you hear him say: "Where them dumb dames goan?"

That makes you shake your head. If you've guessed correctly and the young man is a Normal student, you're faced with the probability that he'll be one of the people to whom British Columbia will entrust its young in another few months.

It sets you to making clucking noises with your tongue and the roof of your mouth. There, if fortune wills it, may be the young man who'll be teaching your kids English. Your mind goes back to high school lessons in grammar and diction. How, you wonder, do you parse a sentence with no verb? What kind of deportment are the youngsters going to learn from "them dumb dames" and their erstwhile squire?

You'll find yourself drawing comparisons between the young gentlemen who skipped off the bus and the idealized images of the teachers who taught you. You'll remember them gratefully for the appreciation they gave you of language and literature, the growing enjoyment they cultivated in you for the science of words, the rhythm and imagery of poetry, the phrase-making of the masters and the fluency of speech and writing.

Still Growing Up

You may keep pondering change and decay unhappily, wondering if the group on the bus is fit material for future teachers. And then, unless you're too asorbed in that line of thought, you may realize that these young men and young women are more than likely just kids half a year out of high school and only half a year through Normal.

If you can remember back that far, there were lots of equivalent and no more elegant synonyms for "them dumb dames" in the vernacular of your generation at that age. And out of your crowd came some pretty good teachers.

How the transformation occurs from what appears to be a semi-literate to a competent junior teacher, you may never know. It's one of the miracles that happen in the process of growing up to a job. The important thing is that it does happen—has been happening for years and possibly generations.

Worry if you like. That's your prerogative and your hereditary right. Your parents probably worried the same way when their children were young.

Legion Hunts Home Nursing For Chronics

Plans Talks With City Manager

An investigation into the possibility of increasing home nursing facilities for chronically ill elderly people in Victoria will be undertaken by the Zone Council of the Canadian Legion.

The council endorsed the investigation at a meeting Thursday after it had received a report touching on the large number of persons, including pensioners, who are chronically ill and are unable to afford attention.

It appointed Peter Barr as chairman of a committee to see if something can be done to expand nursing facilities here.

The committee will begin its work by interviewing City Manager Cecil Wyatt with regard to a plan for the conversion of a section of the Old Men's Home on Cadboro Bay Road into a nursing home.

It has also been suggested that the huts at St. Joseph's Hospital which were abandoned when the new hospital wings were completed, be used for that purpose.

The council also endorsed a recommendation requesting the federal government to credit the unemployment insurance of a deceased person to his widow upon her taking employment. Under the present system the money is turned over to the general insurance fund.

The council was informed that the Provincial Command has endorsed a recommendation for the reduction of postal rates on food parcels to Britain.

It was decided to inquire if more 16 millimeter films can be sent to troops serving in Korea. The films are a popular form of entertainment, it was pointed out.

EARLIER ELECTION?

Quebec's Tax Study May Change Tactics

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD
British United Press Staff Correspondent

OTTAWA (BUP)—A high Liberal source hinted today that current Duplessis maneouvres in Quebec may outweight even the celebrated Currie report in influencing the political course of action of the administration of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

The Union Nationale premier's dramatic proposal for a Quebec counterpart of the famous Rowell-Sirois Royal Commission was easily capable of precipitating a federal general election at the earliest date possible after the coming budget—conceivably by mid-May.

It is no secret in informed circles here that the St. Laurent cabinet, taking its cue from Liberal MP's suddenly vote-shy by the nation-wide explosion caused by the Currie report, had abandoned up until the past few days any idea of a general election before late autumn at the earliest.

But now the situation is said reliably to have been thrown into complete uncertainty once more.

WHICH IS WORSE

The cabinet's political strategists are reported to be weighing now the risks of public reaction to the Currie report against lengthy spring and summer "smear" propaganda held certain to result from the Quebec Royal Commission's investigation into the effects of federal taxation policy over recent years.

According to federal Liberal circles who have been studying the text of the bill to set up the proposed Quebec commission, the key operative clauses of the legislation make it clear that the motive isn't to win friends or influence voters for the federal government. The Royal Commisson is instructed to report upon:

1. "Encroachments by the central (federal) power in the field of taxation."

2. "The repercussions and results of such encroachments in the legislative and administrative regime of the province and in the collective domestic and individual life of its people."

ABANDONED PROJECTS

So far as Parliament Hill's Liberal strategists are concerned the prospect raised by these instructions are clear. They envisage municipal officials telling the Royal Commission all spring and summer of projects and services which they would have liked to have undertaken in the public interest, but could not because the federal government appropriates more than 70 cents out of each tax dollar collected from the people.

Federal Liberal strategists realize the damage which the federal government necessarily would suffer as the result of a day-after-day recital before the Royal Commission of the benefits in the important fields of municipal and educational services which the level of federal taxation had made impossible.

SOME SENATORS STILL DUBIOUS

Wilson Confirmation Predicted

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate leaders of both parties predicted today that Charles E. Wilson will be confirmed as defense secretary now that he has agreed to sell his $2,700,000 stock in General Motors Corp.

But highly-placed Democrats said there will still be "sharp debate" over the nomination and "a lot of votes" against it. Some Republicans privately admitted that they would have preferred to see President Eisenhower withdraw Wilson's name.

Mr. Eisenhower sent Wilson's nomination to the Senate Thursday night after announcing that the former GM president had "volunteered . . . to dispose of all his stock" in the company which is the defense department's largest contractor.

Chairman Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) called the Senate armed services committee into session today to question Wilson behind closed doors. Several members of the committee said they would insist on a "full disclosure" of Wilson's plans for disposing of the 40,907 shares of GM stock he now holds

Police Fail To Nab Suspect

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police said today a check of the "usual haunts" of Frederick Hensler, sought on a charge of theft of a draft copy of the Currie report, has failed to produce a clue to his whereabouts.

Hilaire Beauregard, deputy-director of the force, said Hensler may still be in Montreal.

Beauregard added: "We cannot go outside Quebec province to make an arrest. If we have no success in finding him today we will have to ask the complainant, George S. Currie, for authority to incur further expenses for Hensler's apprehension."

He said this was necessary because it is a "private prosecution."

The director said the provincial police have no photograph of the man they seek.

Entente Appears Close at Hand

BELGRADE (AP)—The way was apparently cleared today for conclusion of a formal defensive alliance among Yugoslavia, Turkey and Greece, setting up a little Balkan entente against Russian aggression.

Marshal Tito, in his new role as Yugoslavia's president, indicated strongly his government's willingness to abandon its previous reluctance to sign a written agreement as he exchanged dinner toasts with Turkish Foreign Minister Fuad Koprulu in the seclusion of the Adriatic island of Brioni.

JUNK YARD IN KOREA HELL

40 Yards From Reds, Small Band Defends Desolation

BY FORREST EDWARDS

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (AP)—This place is a junk yard in hell.

Nothing of this outpost, only 40 yards from the Chinese Reds, is whole except the men. By dawn some of them may not be. Seven were hit here Thursday night.

The Reds shell this 50 square yards of blasted bare land with an intensity unknown anywhere else on the western front.

A handful of United States soldiers are trying to build a fortress outpost under this almost constant fire. Shells rip the trenches and bunkers apart as fast as they are finished.

The Chinese Reds are so close you often hear the soft plop of their mortar shells as they drop into the firing tubes. It sounds like a butcher slapping a piece of steak on a chopping block.

Second later, an explosion shatters the little knoll with fragments of jagged steel.

So close are the Chinese that this is probably the only place on the front where 45-calibre pistols make the Reds keep their heads down.

Around a bend in the shallow trench from the main Allied line, which is 300 yards to the rear, there is a place where a man can stand erect.

Lieut. Thomas Darnell, Covina, Calif., is standing there. His automatic pistol keeps up a slow and steady bark. Forty yards away little puffs of dirt kick up at the top of a Communist trench.

"We are so close that a rifle is next to useless here," Darnell explains.

"This is the only way we can make them keep their heads down. And they can't snipe at us if they can't get their heads above the trench.

"Two weeks more before I go home. A lot can happen to a man in two weeks out here."

War Unhappy Chance Says South Korean

Battle Is Between Ideologies, Not People Of Same Blood, Visitor to City Claims

Byongho Chin, a South Korean who was born in North Korea, understands better than most what the fighting in his homeland is about.

"What is the difference? What is the trouble between North Koreans and South Koreans?" he was asked during an interview at the Empress Hotel today.

"There is no difference. They are the same people, the same blood, speak the same language.

"The fighting is not between North and South Koreans, it is between ideologies. It was just unhappy accident that the fighting is in Korea."

Mr. Chin is director of the Land Transportation Bureau, Ministry of Transportation, of the Republic of Korea, with headquarters in Pusan. He is in Canada on an extended study of our transportation systems, especially railways.

The 2,800 miles of railways under his control in South Korea have taken a pounding due to the war, and his government instructed him to plan for rebuilding when peace comes.

Asked when he thought that might be, Mr. Chin smiled, shrugged, and said "don't ask me—ask Stalin."

He is greatly impressed by the tempo of Canadian business, and by the friendly co-operation of the Canadian people. Transportation officials, he said, have made every effort to help him.

SIMILAR CONDITIONS

He came to Canada in mid-October, going direct to Montreal to consult with head office of the CPR. From there he explored rail connections to the Maritimes, then worked his way slowly across Canada via CPR. He will return to Montreal via CNR, then to the Pacific Coast again through the United States before returning by air to Korea. Mr. Chin left Victoria this morning for Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Canada was chosen for his study because of the similarity of operating conditions between the two countries. "Our climate is much like yours, our problems similar," he said.

Mr. Chin, who is 49, has been in the railway business for 28 years. His bureau operates 630 steam locomotives and 30 diesels on its 2,800 miles of track.

Another 2,800 miles lie in North Korea. He looks forward to the day—how distant, he does not know—when the two will be joined again in one system. And when he, himself, can rejoin the relatives who still live in North Korea.

Broadcasters Want to Pep Up Politics

OTTAWA (CP).—The Canadian Association of Broadcasters suggested today the Canadian Broadcasting Act be amended to permit radio stations to use various program devices to arouse interest in politics.

Appearing before the CBC board of governors to discuss proposed changes in regulations, the association said stations now are largely confined to carrying speeches of political candidates.

Dramatized political broadcasts are banned.

"We would suggest that careful study be given to wording the act and controls made thereunder in such a fashion that these approaches are not permitted, but permitting such useful devices as interviews, question and answer programs, quiz shows and similar program mechanics," said the association in a brief.

ASK MORE "SPOTS"

The board of governors was also asked to reconsider a proposed regulation placing a limit on the number of spot announcements a radio station may carry.

The request was made by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, representing most of the privately-owned stations in Canada, in a brief submitted to a CBC board meeting, called to consider changes in regulations.

CBC regulations now ban spot announcements Sundays and between 7.30 p.m. and 11 p.m. week days. The advertising content is not supposed to exceed in time 10 per cent of any program period.

C. of C. Keeping Out of Dispute

Withdraws From Shipyard Wage Talks; 'Situation Deteriorated'

Victoria Chamber of Commerce has withdrawn from intervention in the current wage dispute between shipyard operators and the Boilermakers' Union, Local 191 (TLC).

"Under the circumstances we feel the situation has deteriorated beyond the point where the Chamber of Commerce could be of any assistance in settling the dispute," stated George F. Gregory, chairman of the chamber's labor relations committee, in a letter to the union.

The union policy is to avoid a strike if at all possible.

"At this stage we can either go to a strike vote or try again to negotiate," a union spokesman said today. "We feel we are stronger than ever before, but we don't want to strike if it can possibly be avoided."

MORE THAN OTHERS

The union seeks a 12½-cent hourly pay increase instead of the 7½ cents offered by Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrows Ltd., which has been accepted by nine other shipyard unions.

"We suggested that we would like a meeting with company representatives, with a Chamber of Commerce member in the chair and the press on hand, to talk over the whole situation," the union spokesman said. "The chamber was not interested in that proposition, though."

On Thursday H. S. Hammill, general manager of VMD, said Chamber of Commerce mediation was "absolutely unnecessary" since there was no work stoppage and negotiations were continuing.

City Library Services Show Big Increases

All operations of Victoria Public Library increased in 1952, according to the annual report submitted by the retiring board chairman, Dr. J. D. Hunter.

He noted a 20 per cent increase in circulation, 45 per cent increase in reservation of books and 41 per cent greater borrowing in the children's department.

"If the demand for service continues to increase, a larger budget will be necessary," he reported.

Total operating costs were $150,985, but receipts of $62,486 from municipalities, $8,370 from the Public Library Commission, and $2,665 from fines and film rentals reduced the net cost to Victoria to $82,794.

Dr. Hunter noted that agreements for library services between the city and Oak Bay, Saanich, Esquimalt and Central Saanich makes the library "one of the few existing Greater Victoria services."

Greater service will be given outlying municipalities by a bookmobile service now under consideration, he reported, and which should have one vehicle operating by the end of the year.

Applications have been called for the post of assistant librarian, he said.

Power Transmission Said Vital Problem

Problems of power transmission, and the role played by electric power in Canada's industrial development, were described to Victoria Rotary Club in the Empress Hotel Thursday by G. A. Vandervoort, chief operations engineer of the B.C. Power Commission.

The basic problem in Canada, he said, is to transmit tremendously high voltages over long distances. Only close co-operation between research scientists, industrial designers, and manufacturers has made Canada's great progress possible.

Prison Padre Gets Rioting Cons to Quit

330 Mutinous Inmates End Four-Day Fracas

BELLEFONTE, Pa. — A prison chaplain climbed a ladder set against the west wall of Rockview penitentiary and talked 330 mutinous convicts into ending their four-day riot.

Father Richard J. Walsh, the prison's Roman Catholic chaplain, conferred with four spokesmen for the rioters only a few minutes while armed guards awaited an order to storm the cellblocks.

The priest told the men he thought they should release the six guards they were holding as hostages and surrender their weapons to avoid bloodshed.

The surrender was unconditional because Gov. John S. Fine sternly had warned the rioters there would be no compromise.

At the time that Father Walsh was speaking softly to the rioters' leaders, Fine was meeting with high administration and law enforcement officials at his Indiantown Gap summer residence.

The governor had called the meeting to decide whether to send the heavily-armed guards and about 100 state troopers into the penitentiary to quell the riot at any cost.

None of the six hostage guards was injured but one. Paul Gingher, was suffering from a "nervous disorder," prison authorities said.

Who Distorts the Facts?

WRITING ON BEHALF OF THE Progressive Conservative Association, Mr. J. A. A. George accuses this newspaper of distorting the history of his party and then goes on to distort the well-known and recorded facts.

He says, first, that the late Lord Bennett, when prime minister of Canada, had no interest in what he called "discriminatory and inadequate trade within the Commonwealth." He was interested, says Mr. George in "any and all possible trade for Canada."

If Mr. George will read Lord Bennett's speeches he will see that Lord Bennett laid down the doctrine over and over again that Canada should import nothing that it could produce itself. He forced the Ottawa trade treaties on a reluctant British government and their sole purpose was to confine whatever trade the Commonwealth countries conducted within a restricted Commonwealth and Empire partnership.

Lord Bennett did not reduce Canadian tariffs on Commonwealth and Empire goods. He merely raised all other tariffs against the world to the highest peak ever known. The result was disastrous. And if Mr. George will read the secret diplomatic documents, published not long ago, he will see that the Ottawa treaties had been in effect only two or three years when Lord Bennett tried to extricate himself from them because they were a total failure. What we said here was an exact description of the Bennett policy of protection, restriction and economic war.

Second, Mr. George denies that the Conservative party today favors "a safe, restricted and discriminatory bloc (of trade) within the Commonwealth." In the next paragraph, however, Mr. George virtually confirms this statement himself. He goes on to attack the United States market, which is now taking most of Canada's exports and on which the whole economy of Canada depends more than on all other markets combined. He states, quite wrongly, that American tariffs have been increasing since Roosevelt's time when, in fact (despite certain recent and unjust specific import quotas) American tariffs have been constantly reduced by the expansion of the Geneva trade agreements.

Since the American market, in Mr. George's view, is unreliable and dangerous, since it is sure to shrink, we must turn elsewhere. We must turn to the Commonwealth markets. Then he says, again inaccurately, that the Liberal government of Canada is steadily losing the Commonwealth market when, in fact, British purchases here are still near the highest level in modern times.

Britain is buying here abundantly but is not buying exactly the same things it used to buy. Why is it not buying as much British Columbia lumber, for example, as it used to buy? Because our high-cost industries are unable to compete with other exporters. Britain wisely is buying where it can buy at the lowest price.

The Canadian government is encouraging, by every practical means, the sale of British products here. It grants a large tariff preference on many British goods. But the government is not ready to exclude other competitive imports and force Canadians to buy all kinds of British goods at prices for above those available elsewhere. Such a policy would raise our cost of living and our already high cost of producing goods for export.

It is clear from innumerable statements by the Conservative party in Parliament and also from Mr. George's letter that it proposes to restrict American in favor of British imports. What it refuses to see is that the United States would instantly retaliate against that discrimination and would reduce its buying here, with calamitous results to our economy, especially to the economy of British Columbia which sells largely to the United States.

Mr. George says the government has "neither the heart nor the vision" to develop Commonwealth trade. How would he do it? Clearly by the method mentioned, by restricting our trade with the so-called unreliable American market. Mr. George simply means, in greater or less degree, a return to the Bennett policy.

Finally, his argument becoming somewhat disreputable, Mr. George says The Times feels "no moral responsibility to England" and reminds us of the obvious fact that the collapse of Britain would be ruinous to us and the whole free world. When has Mr. George ever read a word in these columns to support that snide allusion? If Mr. George has read this newspaper he must know that it has always supported maximum Canadian aid to Britain, that it has been dissatisfied with the aid already given even though (as Mr. George evidently forgets) Canada has given aid proportionately as great as that given by the United States.

If Mr. George will also read the official statement of the last Commonwealth conference of November, 1952, he will see that all the nations present repudiated the notion of concentrating trade within the Commonwealth. They agreed that Britain and the sterling nations must cure inflation and get their export prices down in order to sell their goods in America. They confirmed the Canadian government's approach to this problem, proposed a general expansion of world trade and rejected any thought of a tariff struggle with the United States, as proposed by the Conservative party of Canada.

The solution of this vast and complex problem will not be found in any policy of trade restriction, nor in the vague slogans of the Conservative party. It will be found only when the sterling countries are able to price their goods to sell abundantly in the world market.

As a result of the London conference, there is good hope that this will be accomplished, not overnight but by gradual stages. In any case, there can be no solution without the fullest co-operation of the United States whose policies the Conservatives are constantly condemning. If things go well there is reason to hope that the United States will supply sufficient dollars to underwrite the convertibility of pounds into dollars and to this project the Canadian government is certainly ready to contribute its share in hard money, for its policy has always been to help Britain to help itself.

Another Look at Young Offenders

A FEW WEEKS AGO NEWSpapers in Vancouver sent representatives to inspect Oakalla. From those inspections came reports deploring conditions in the provincial jail. Overcrowding was blamed for many of the faults found in the operations of the institution.

Now attention has been turned to the Boys' Industrial School, which, like Oakalla, has also been labelled a school of crime. Here, again, inquiries have revealed overcrowding and lack of facilities to carry out rehabilitation work among young offenders.

Such findings draw attention to plans previously made for a new boys' industrial school north of Nanaimo. The plans have not yet been implemented. Young offenders are still treated in quarters too small for them. They have not the space or the equipment required for a modern approach to correction.

A sound humanitarian case may be offered to support construction of a better industrial school. And backing it are good economic arguments.

If the boys' industrial school fails to restore youths to lives of usefulness it has the limited value only of withdrawing them from circulation for a short time. Once they are released, unless they are reformed, they can pick up their careers where they were interrupted by arrest. In time they may graduate to Oakalla and then to the penitentiary at a high cost to the state and to society on which they prey.

Recognition of these facts should stimulate the government to act on the plans for an improved school. Inaction is too costly.

Action Against Overloads

MINIMUM FINES ONLY WERE imposed or two drivers convicted recently on charges of driving overloaded logging trucks on the Island Highway.

The lightness of the penalties is not important at this point. The significant feature of the cases is the warning it gives other operators. They know, or they should know, that they will no longer be able to flout the law restricting loads. If the regulations are not observed in future it is reasonable to assume that fines will be stepped up.

The attention of truckers has been drawn forcibly to one of the dangers they create on highways when they carry overloads. That does not, in itself, promise a complete cure. There is still the question of insecure fastenings. Interested bodies have already drawn that to the attention of provincial authorities. It is to be hoped no laxity will be countenanced on this point.

Prosecutions for overloads mark the start of action to check a serious hazard on the roads. But that is only a beginning.

Chips

BY DAVE BROCK

MY florist has sent me a booklet on floral-etiquette. When I say he is my florist, I don't mean I own him exclusively or even patronize him exclusively. Or even that I buy many flowers, for I hardly ever do. But he says he is my florist. In making this declaration to me, I think he should have sent me a bokay or corsage. That would have been better etiquette. However, the booklet itself is quite charming. And it has told me lots of things I didn't know. According to this booklet, I should be buying flowers every few minutes. Each time one of my pals has a baby or a christening or a birthday or a dinner or a wedding or an engagement or an operation or a bereavement or leaves my firm or is a prospective customer of mine, I should send him or her flowers.

Brock

You remember how Harry Lauder used to sing:

I've just come frae a weddin' or a funeral,
A christening, or something of the kind,
But the stuff that I've been drinkin' has took ma nooral,
And sae why or where I've been I canna mind.

If that is how you spell nooral. Well, if a few drinks can make all these events seem similar, so can a few flowers. I'm sending so many flowers now, after reading that booklet, I can't remember which of my friends have been dying and which have had a dinner party.

Some of the rules of etiquette are rather curious. When a woman has a baby, you not only send her flowers but "it is good taste to send an amusing arrangement of small flowers in a novel container" for the infant itself. "Florists delight in making up these baby gifts." They go all whimsy, do they? The hell with them.

GRACIOUS COMPLIMENT

At a christening, the husband buys flowers for the mother and godmother. The husband of what? Of the baby? Flowers on a lady's birthday "are a gracious compliment no matter what her age." Well, you don't have to spell her age out in flowers, do you? Why not leave her age out of it? Flowers aren't candles on a cake.

When a lot of girls work together in a shop or office, they should club together and buy flowers for each other on their birthdays, ignoring none. Just figure that out . . . if there are 26 girls, and the regulation bokay costs $2.50, each girls chips in 10 cent a time, for 25 times. She spends $2.50 a year. In return, on the 26th time she gets $2.50 in flowers sent to her by the other girls. In other words, she has bought herself a bokay on the instalment plan.

You should send flowers to your mother on your own birthday as well as on hers, because "your natal day was an important event in her life." If you were her 23rd kid, I bet it wasn't. I bet it was a lot more important in yours. However, let us not quibble, but just kick through with the old nosegays anyhow. After all, we're sending them to practically everyone else, so why make your mother feel different and out of it all?

OBSERVANCE

By the way, "both men and women observe this" business of sending flowers to their mothers on their own birthdays. Which men, and which women? Never heard of them. And why hint that men babies were slightly less important in their mothers' lives than women babies?

When a man "is invited to dinner at the home of married friends" he sends flowers. What if they are not married but just chums? What if the hostess is single, or a widow? And would it be just as good if you sent her a beefsteak to replace what you ate, or a bottle of sherry. This booklet is good, but it has gaps in it. Lacunae, I think they are called. I once made up a poem about the grave lacunae of Mickey Rooney, but we'll have that another time.

If an engagement is to be announced at a party, the guests all send flowers in advance. How do they know about the engagement if it hasn't been announced? Are they tipped off by the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association (which issued this booklet, I see)?

A female convalescent should have flowers for her bed jacket and a large bunch to look at on the dresser and a small bunch to handle on the bedside table and a fourth bunch, so help me, to stick in her hair. She's getting delirious . . . call the nurse.

SADLY LACKING

A husband who forgets to send flowers on his wedding anniversary "is sadly lacking in the qualities that make a successful husband." Laugh that off, you failures. If you were asked to a wedding, you should send the bride flowers on every anniversary thereafter . . . wow. This is to show your "continued interest." I continue no interest in past weddings. I was bored even at the time.

But at least, by gum, I don't send flowers instead of wedding presents, as urged by the FTDA, when I get a wedding announcement instead of an invitation! The booklet says an announcement means that presents are not expected. No? I've noticed that nobody sends the presents back. I've also noticed that many modern brides don't trouble to write letters of thanks, having got their manners in the school of hard knocks. They don't even send flowers of thanks.

PROPHECY PLUS

An article in your paper on January 7 strongly criticizing Mr. Manning's prophetic teaching, clearly manifests that, if a knowledge of prophecy were a mortal sin, you would be quite innocent.

Prophetic teaching has nothing to do with present-day politics.

You manifest bitterness by calling Manning "Saint Ernest." Of course you did not really mean he is a saint. Well, every believer in the Lord is a saint.

You take exception to the quotation, "Keep your eye on that strange little country, Israel."

May I point out to you that scientists agree with that admonition. They tell us that future wars will be "chemical" wars. Where is this chemical wealth? In Palestine.

The analysis shows that the value of chemicals in the Dead Sea is $1,270,000,000,000. We are told that this staggering sum is equal to the combined wealth of U.S.A., Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy (pre-war).

The estimated chemical wealth—magnesium chloride, sodium chloride, calcium chloride, potassium chloride, magnesium bromide—of the Dead Sea is "forty-one thousand million tons."

That chemical wealth can be exploited both to build a peace-time standard of living and a wartime military machine in a way so simple and inexpensive as to defy and defeat competition from any other section of the world.

That is why Russia looks south—virtually into her own "backyard." That is why scientists keep their eyes on that "strange little country, Israel."

DEFENDER OF THE FAITH

Re the explanation in your issue of Jan. 14 by C. W. Deans of Vancouver, in respect of the title "Defender of the Faith" borne by English sovereigns.

That title did not appear in English history until 1521 AD, and it had no connection with the tracing of the ancestry of the kings and queens of England to King David of Israel. Historians, such as Collier, Green, Tout and Myers, also Encyclopaedia Britannica, agree that King Henry VIII, who was proud of his theological knowledge, wrote a book entitled "The Defense of the Seven Sacraments," in refutation of Martin Luther's teachings. This pleased Pope Leo X and he bestowed the title "Defender of the Faith" on the King, and succeeding English monarchs from Edward VI to Anne have borne it.

After the separate crowns and individual sovereignties of the Kingdoms of England and Scotland were merged, by the Act of Union 1707, into the single crown and sovereignty of Great Britain, the title "Defender of the Faith" applied to each of the British kings and queens from Anne to George VI, and it will be one which Her Gracious Majesty Queen Elizabeth will receive in June, 1953.

It is interesting to note that from the political union of the kingdoms of England and Scotland there have been born several kingdoms, each a separate and independent international personality, and our young sovereign, as well as being Queen of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, is Queen of Canada, Queen of Australia, etc., etc. A Commonwealth? Perhaps a Company of Nations with a wealth of Christian ideals held in common might be a better description.

Criticism Of a Criticism

As one who has taken delight in the establishment of a repertory theatre in Victoria may I query the purpose of Dave Stock's review of "Murder Without Crime" in the Tuesday issue of your paper?

Is it the duty of a theatrical reviewer to assess audience reaction, to tell the plot of the play, to intrude his own preferences in drama, and to applaud or condemn a play solely in terms of these external criteria? Are particular audiences never wrong?

Are one's own prejudices always to rule? Can one go to the theatre only for amusement?

Shakespeare's "Hamlet" could be condemned as "definitely not for those desiring a 'lift.'" Is that a valid criticism of "Hamlet?" And is it valid criticism to imply that a play is poor because there are only four parts in it?

It seems to me more reasonable to expect a critic to take steps to discover what a dramatist is trying to do, his success in doing it, and the success of the actors in making the play text come alive.

"Murder Without Crime" is a study of decadent Mayfair society in which money and youth are the keys to all life values, and in which the concepts' "duty" and "responsibility" are to be tittered at.

Matthew is an Oscar Wilde character who is too poor to afford the "whirl and too old to charm the ladies. What can he do but envy and hate young Stephen with his money, his good looks, and his success with women? Why shouldn't Matthew, after years of neurotic festering, seek revenge on Stephen when fate gives him the chance?

And what is more probable than that a Matthew would play with his victim as a cat does with a mouse, or that we would indulge in humor or in momentary kindness to add further relish to his sport?

Surely it is valuable to have such personalities analyzed in the theatre for us. Are we expected to rest content always in the world of make believe, or in reassuring caricatures?

In my opinion "Murder Without Crime" is a thriller with depth and climax. Despite one or two minor flaws (easily explicable if one considers that the York Players are producing a new play every week) the performers carry their roles with power. And the excellent set provides the exactly appropriate locale.

From Our Files

Jan. 23, 1893—The British barque Assel, Capt. Gilmore, arrived at Esquimalt last night, 154 days from London with a general cargo for the R. P. Rithet Co. Ltd., and 70 tons of naval stores.

Jan. 23, 1913—A highly successful ice carnival was held at the Arena last evening, the 800 costumed skaters being joined after the judging by nearly 300 in ordinary clothes.

Jan. 23, 1933—Word was received here today that the Ss. Prince David, rebuilt at the Halifax Shipyards, had run her trials off that port. They were a complete success.

From 14 Points To 14 Victims

LESS than two score years separate the proclamation of President Wilson's Fourteen Points in 1917 from the hapless fourteen victims of the notorious treason trials in Prague, capital of Czechoslovakia, at the end of 1952.

Czechoslovakia, "bulwark of democracy," as sociologists and journalists were wont to call it, has now reached a depth of ruthless totalitarianism within such a short interval which makes the change of contrasting ideologies perplexing and inexplicable. And reports from Europe indicate that worse happenings are in the offing. As one reporter puts it, the country is ruled by suspicion, fear and hate.

The Czechs cannot be held responsible for having been born, just like ourselves, during a period in history which will probably be called the age of senseless destruction. But they have done their share of it in persuading President Wilson to destroy the Austro-Hungarian empire, when they had nothing but their own Pan-Slavism and political inexperience to put in its place.

CZECH CRADLE

It must be remembered that the cradle of Czechoslovakia was Pittsburg, U.S.A., where a number of the immigrant steelworkers were enlisted by Thomas Masaryk as founders, and some of them thought it was to be an extension of the Bolshevik rebellion into Austria.

Wilson's Fourteen Points had just been published and Masaryk scurried to Washington, fearful that Wilson meant what he said. And at the very time the proclamation of Open Covenants Openly Arrived at had been nailed to the front of the White House, President Wilson made a deal at the back door, suspending the point which stipulated Self-Determination.

The germs of Bolshevism, aggravated by their traditions of Pan-Slavism which the founders of Czechoslovakia carried into Austria-Hungary enabled them to loot the wealth of the empire without conscience qualms, though the rest of the people were starving. Unwilling racial minorities more numerous than the Czechs were forced into the realm and exploited unmercifully. While members of the bourgeoisie in Vienna were starving, the night life of Prague was sumptuous and foreign correspondents were extolling the benefits of democracy while feasting on the ill-gotten spoils.

HOUSE OF CARDS

By the time Hitler marched into Czechoslovakia the country was morally bankrupt and fell apart like a house of cards. As Lord Runciman had predicted, all the minorities were in revolt; Germans, Hungarians and Poles were eager to join their own nationals and even the Slovaks were anxious to throw off the Czech yoke. Czechoslovakia had not a friend either within or without its boundary.

At the end of World War Two, Benes discovered on his return to his country that almost every Czech industrialist had been a willing collaborator with the Nazis.

Motivated by thoughtless and senseless revenge, he expropriated all the industries and collectivized them on the Soviet pattern. And by the time the hangman had finished with all who had not been able to escape, the foundation for the Soviet structure of Czech industries was truly laid.

Then followed the second stage of re-educating the Czech "democrats" into exemplary Communists. By expropriating and expelling millions of their Sudeten German and Hungarian citizens, giving members of the Communist party the preference in looting or, in case of resistance, resorting to murder, the membership of the Communist party in Czechoslovakia exceeded that of all other Communist lands in comparison to population.

FIBRE DESTROYED

The easy acquisition of wealth by looting increased the Communist vote in 1946 perceptibly, but it also destroyed what was left of moral fibre in the Czech people. In less than three years, the fruits of the soil and the beasts on the hills were eaten up and famine threatened the cities. It was Stalin's generosity, properly advertised, which saved the people by supplying them with grain. In gratitude, Gottwald, the new head of the Czech government, sprang the trap which made his people captives in 1948.

Communism didn't come into Czechoslovakia as a thief in the night. The germs were brought into the making of the Czech state from Bolshevik Russia and were clearly discernable in the lootings, expropriations and exploitations. They multiplied as the Czechs took their neighbor's goods without moral justification. It was the spirit of Macchiavelli minus Macchiavelli's insight, honesty and frankness aided by our newly invented system of propaganda.

Time, the Secret

Ottawa Citizen

Van Eyck, Rembrandt, Rubens, and the rest would surely have been flattered to know that generations of painters have tried to find the "secret formula" for their medium, supposedly lost at the end of the 17th century. Reynolds, for example, is said to have mixed some extraordinarily exotic concoctions in an attempt to reproduce the richness of the old masters' materials. He succeeded, however, only in proving that his recipes were not the right ones and making almost impossible the present-day work of restoring some of his paintings. The experiments conducted by an art school in Paris proved nothing at all. For the result, a dark, jelly-like mixture, was eaten by the students at an adjoining boys' school, when it was laid outside to dry.

It seems likely that the old masters would also have been amused by the search for their secret formula. For according to The London Times' art critic, painters now are having doubts that there is a secret to be found. After two centuries of searching for, as it were, the philosopher's stone of the old masters' technique, they have concluded the painters of the past used nothing but oil and turpentine. Time, not a lost technique, seems to have produced the effect they have been laboring for so long to reproduce.

B.C. Reporter Helped Nab Smuggling Ring

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Henry Leong, a Vancouver News Herald reporter, today was credited with aiding government officials in smashing a $1,000,000 smuggling ring which transported goods from Canada to the U.S. and sold them for exorbitant prices.

Leong, a former RCMP special investigator and now a staffer on the newspaper, was instrumental in the arrests of four San Francisco Chinese residents who were smuggling goods across the international boundary.

The four were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Benny Lau and Frances and Walter Louie, all of San Francisco.

Leong said in a copyright News Herald story the four were believed to be members of a mushrooming smuggling ring which carried low-priced goods into the U.S. to be sold for high prices among Chinese residents in the west coast communities.

When arrested, the four were alleged to have had $50,000 worth of Chinese herbs and spices in their car. They were picked up on a back road near Blaine, Wash.

The four will face trial starting Feb. 24 in Seattle.

CABINET EASES RULE AGAINST DELEGATIONS

The provincial cabinet Thursday eased its "no delegations during the session" ruling.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black announced that individual cabinet ministers will meet delegations or individuals during the session.

The cabinet, he explained, simply wouldn't have time during the session.

The cabinet, he explained, simply wouldn't have time during the session to hear delegations because ministers will be busy preparing legislation, sitting on committees, sitting in regular cabinet meetings.

Mr. Black said any organization wanting to see the cabinet as a body before the Legislature meets should do so before Feb. 3.

After that time delegations may meet individual ministers or groups may submit written briefs to the cabinet.

Bid for More Power by CKDA Is Opposed

Move to Change Spot On Dial Challenged

Radio station CKDA's application for permission to boost its power and to change its operating frequency met with opposition from two other stations when it went before the CBC board of governors at Ottawa Tuesday.

Opposition to the proposed changes came from stations CJVI, Victoria, and CKWX, Vancouver.

The case for CKDA was presented by D. M. Armstrong, owner-manager, who said he wanted to move from 1340 on the dial to 730 because of interference from other stations on the upper end of the band.

Keith MacKinnon, who appeared for the two opposing stations, argued that Canada was bound by an agreement with Mexico that only one Canadian station, CKAC in Montreal, would operate on the 730 spot. He asked that the CKDA application be deferred so that, if the frequency is to become available, all stations would have equal chance to apply for it.

Gardiner to Battle For Prairie Project

Liberal Minister Will Oppose Findings Of Commission of Huge Irrigation Plans

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspndent

OTTAWA — Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, with the solid support of all Saskatchewan members, will continue to fight for the construction of the South Saskatchewan River dam, regardless of the adverse findings of the royal commission.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons Thursday the government "has not yet had an opportunity to give proper consideration to the report." As soon as it has had that opportunity, he said, any conclusion would be announced in parliament.

The minister of agriculture's attitude in regard to the project has not changed according to Saskatchewan Liberal members. He is still convinced it is essential to the future welfare of Saskatchewan and is determined to do everything in his power to persuade his colleagues that the federal government should be prepared to carry out its share of the scheme once it has reached agreement with the Saskatchewan government.

The project has not yet reached the stage where the federal cabinet has got to make a decision on whether it will build the dam.

A division may develop within the federal cabinet on the project as a result of the Royal Commission's report. The members from Eastern Canada in particular may be opposed to such an undertaking at this time particularly with the government now committed to the costly St. Lawrence Waterway project.

In the meantime Saskatchewan members are striving to ensure that the Royal Commission report does not mean the Saskatchewan project is to be shelved. In this they have the backing of all opposition MP's. The Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit have all declared their endorsation of the scheme. They are not prepared to accept without question the adverse findings of the commission. A full dress debate in parliament is bound to develop.

Dismissal Sought at Manslaughter Hearing

Campbell 'Did Feel Slight Bump,' On Fatal Night, Police Testimony

Archibald Campbell, charged with manslaughter in connection with the Christmas Eve death of 79-year-old Frederick Armstrong at Ker and Tillicum Roads, Saanich, "did feel a slight bump that night," according to police evidence at his preliminary hearing before magistrate's court Thursday.

On completion of Crown evidence, Magistrate Henry C. Hall invited argument at next week's sitting before deciding whether Campbell should be committed for trial. Judgment is set for Feb. 5.

Defense counsel George Gregory asked that the charge be dismissed as the Crown had not made out a case of gross neglect on the part of Campbell.

Prosecutor L. G. McKenzie admitted there was no strong prima facie evidence against accused.

Detective Joseph Armstrong told the court that when he visited the Campbell home on Dec. 31 with Constable Bert Pearson, the accused had told them that "I did feel a bump that night." The officer said they had been summoned to the home by telephone.

He testified that Mrs. Campbell, who was present, told them, "I saw something, but I don't know what it was."

The detectives said that Const. Pearson asked Campbell why he did not stop and come back.

Witness said Campbell replied "I don't know; I was too scared."

Det. Armstrong testified that on the night of Dec. 30, Campbell said he and his wife had discussed the matter "and came to the conclusion they had better get it all off their minds."

Const. Pearson corroborated this statement.

In earlier evidence police officers said Campbell had told them he had not been aware of being in an accident.

Det. Armstrong, on a question by Mr. Gregory, said a warrant for the arrest of Campbell was not sworn out by him until Jan. 2.

A nine-page question-and-answer statement from a police interview with Campbell was admitted in evidence. Mr. McKenzie read a page and a half and concluded with "in the whole there is no admission he knows of anything happening."

Dr. Thomas McConnell Davis, senior analyst of the B.C. Department of Mines, said he tested fragments of glass found at the scene of the accident and fragments taken from the broken right headlight of accused's car and found they matched.

New York Idle

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market idled through another dull session today. Prices were mixed with a tendency to drift lower.

General Motors fell back fractionally after opening unchanged on a block of 1,800 shares.

Higher were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, Woolworth, Boeing, Admiral Corp., Kennecott, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, General Electric, Standard Oil and Johns Manville.

Canadian issues were mixed. Canadian Pacific and Dome Mines advanced ⅛, International Nickel added ¼ and Distillers Seagram remained unchanged.

On the American stock exchange Giant Yellowknife gained ⅛ and Royalite Oil dropped ⅛.

Toronto Firm

TORONTO (CP)—Prices continued firm in brisk stock market trading today, with only base metals losing strength.

Western oils led the gains, adding almost half a point on the exchange index. Industrials and golds made smaller advances.

Papers provided a weak spot in industrials but manufacturing companies, banks and retail stores gained.

Senior golds drew fair support.

Montreal Higher

MONTREAL (CP). — Stock prices turned irregularly higher in dull dealings today on the stock market.

Utilizers were solidly higher while papers and miscellaneous industrials barely acquired sufficient plus signs to move higher.

Asbestos Corporation, Price Brothers, Bell, International Nickel and Stelco were among the favored issues.

Mines were generally higher although most improvements were small.

Western Tungsten gained 25 cents and Steep Rock 20 for the only major gains.

Trading in western oils was not sufficient to establish a trend.

London Higher

LONDON (Reuters) — Domestic issues continued in favor today on the stock exchange. Prices improved or were maintained but just before the close a little surface dullness was apparent.

With the exception of the irredeemable stocks, most issues were firm.

Ordinary industrial shares remained quietly firm but the fixed-interest stocks of top grade companies were still in demand. Mines were generally firmer.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices generally moved at slightly lower levels today on the Winnipeg grain exchange in sympathy with further declines on U.S. markets and a carryover of yesterday's liquidation.

Commercial demand was limited in both oats and barley.

Flax uncovered better commercial interest, with industrial firms and seaboard houses on the buying side on the declines. Some rallies came at lower levels. Rye disclosed American houses on both sides of the market.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat totaled 1,525,000 bushels, including: United Kingdom 700,000; Bolivia 460,000; and South Africa 365,000.

Prices for Class Two and IWA wheat were unchanged.

B.C. Resources Control Urged

By BURKE CAHILL, Times Business Editor

When natural resources are exploited carelessly nature is certain to present a bill for payment.

Cahill

No single one of British Columbia's vast resources can be exploited independently. To do so ignores the laws of nature. Without a master plan, based on a natural region, such as a watershed, resource development is wasteful and costly.

This is the basic theme of a survey just issued by the executive of the sixth B.C. Natural Resources Conference for consideration at the meeting in Victoria, February 25 to 27.

The province's wealth of water power, coal beds, gas and oil, timber and agricultural lands and other rich assets demand a sound, comprehensive program of development, it's pointed out.

PUBLIC DAMAGE

There is no private right to do public damage, the survey stresses, in exploiting any one of these natural treasures.

Soil and water should get first rank in planning. This must start by protecting the soil where it is formed and the water where it gathers to form streams and reservoirs.

Natural resources protection is largely a provincial, not a federal, responsibility, the survey emphasizes.

An independent board of review, composed of not more than five, unpaid, members not connected with any government agency but who have outstanding training and experience with natural resources and public affairs should be set up by the B.C. government, it is suggested.

ADVISE GOVERNMENT

The board would be able to advise the government on proposed resource projects. It should have power also to make recommendations to the government concerning possible damage to provincial resources from industrial development practices.

A complete resources development policy for the province with a board of experts to supervise actual progress would seem to fill a basic need for British Columbia.

There may be some objection to concentrating disposal of vast natural wealth in a small central group. But it would seem possible to safeguard any harmful effects from such a move by carefully defining the powers of such a resources body.

So long as the legislature representing the people, continues to have the final say in disposal of natural assets, the benefits from a rational resources protection policy would seem to be very great.

Trucks will be able to drive direct to barges at any stage of the tide when the largest moving general freight slip on Canada's west coast is completed at Vancouver Barge Transportation Ltd. main depot, foot of Rogers, Vancouver.

Built to carry 60 tons, the ramp will speed up loading and unloading by 50 to 60 per cent. The main warehouse, into which the 65-foot slip is built, will be kept clear for more trucks to line up.

Vancouver Barge plans to instal another similar slip when the first has been successfully tested. Other alterations have been made in warehousing and road facilities to keep pace with the increasing loading capacity.

Biggest Oil Land Rush in B.C. History

The biggest oil land rush in British Columbia's history was recorded in 1952, according to government statistics.

The petroleum and natural gas branch year-end compilation showed a record 301 exploration permits were issued last year.

These permits covered an area of 13,833,336 acres, more than 3,000,000 acres above the 1951 total.

The 1952 rush came in the wake of the Fort St. John natural gas discoveries in November, 1951.

Big New Alberni Mill Likely

PORT ALBERNI — MacMillan & Bloedel may build a new $25,000,000 pulp mill at Port Alberni, president H. R. MacMillan told the district chamber of commerce Thursday.

"This is the next natural place for a pulp mill," he said in an address to the chamber.

However, he stressed the mill is not planned yet. "We have not got the money yet, but we can earn it," he said.

Mr. MacMillan told the chamber members: "We can only go into an area of political stability. We don't want confiscation by socialists."

He continued: "You can rely on us to go ahead in the future as we have in the past. The Albernis can depend on a growing volume of employment far into the future."

The meeting saw the first public showing of a new color film, "Trees for Tomorrow," depicting the history and growth of forest operations in the area.

The film was designed to create a better public understanding of company forest policy, Mr. MacMillan explained.

Describing the MacMillan & Bloedel merger, he said the firms joined forces to promote efficiency in forest operations.

Believe It or Not—It's True!

Every so often we hear of an investor who has forgotten to cash Bond interest coupons. Sometimes it even happens that Bonds have already been "called" for redemption. The investor had forgotten them, and the principal, instead of being reinvested, is lying idle . . . losing money by neglect.

Financial institutions don't do this. They keep their money constantly employed.

MACDONALD ANXIOUS, BAKER RETIRED, COATES READY

By DENNY BOYD

Crucial Night Draws Nigh in Boxlaville

Alex Macdonald's fingers will be crossed tonight as managers of the Intercity Lacrosse League decide the fate of his Foul Bay lacrosse club.

Representatives of Victoria Shamrocks, New Westminster Salmonacs, PNE Indians, Vancouver Lacrosse Club and Nanaimo Native Sons will either vote Foul Bay a league franchise or reject them. Each team will have one vote at the annual league meeting in Vancouver.

★ ★ ★

The situation is strangely reminiscent of the 1950 season when Shamrocks, then too a composite senior B club, were voted into the league although there were many protests that, as a senior B team, they did not belong in intercity company.

Macdonald said this week, "I believe that the Vancouver clubs and Nanaimo will give up a fair hearing and if we can get three of their votes, we will be in. After that we will prove that we belong."

★ ★ ★

A remote possibility, suggested in a Vancouver newspaper, appears neither possible nor probable. As an alternative to giving Foul Bay a franchise, the story suggested Foul Bay and Shamrocks amalgamate under a single franchise. This hardly seems likely as the Shamrocks have drawn up their own board of directors for the coming season.

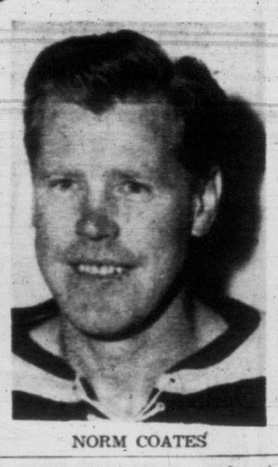
NORM BAKER

★ ★ ★

However, Foul Bay will not be alone in waiting on thin ice. Status of Nanaimo Native Sons, never too secure since their league entry two seasons ago, will be discussed at the meeting. Considered a weak sister and poor drawing card by the Vancouver clubs, Nanaimo officials may have to talk fast to retain their franchise. The possibility of Foul Bay taking Nanaimo's place in the league is not out of the question, as has been inferred previously in The Times.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, another name was added to the list of retired Shamrocks Thursday when Norm Baker announced that he was definitely retiring from active sports.



NORM COATES

Baker stated that the leg injury he sustained last season still bothered him to to the extent that he had difficulty in bowling, let alone playing lacrosse.

The muscles and blood vessels in Baker's upper leg were torn and ruptured near the end of last season, forcing him to miss the playoffs.

★ ★ ★

He had hoped to play basketball for Victoria Kins this season, having received his amateur reinstatement. Failure of the injury to recover has prevented his return.

He has been taking regularly theraputic treatment in an effort to remove four large knots in the muscle but the treatments have not been successful. It is possible that surgery could restore full use of the muscle but Baker feels that his playing days are too limited to take such a risk.

★ ★ ★

However, Norm Coates who was announced in Vancouver as retiring squelched such rumors when he announced he was raring to go and had given no thought whatsoever to quitting.

★ ★ ★

Other possible topics for discussion tonight are the discussed switch from seven to six-man lacrosse and secession from the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

Stamps Again Beaten

Canucks Victors, Royals Earn Tie

Vancouver 5, Calgary 3
New Westminster 2, Saskatoon 2

When a Western Hockey League team from the coast visits Calgary, it usually comes out on the wrong end of the score. At least it was that way until Victoria Cougars snapped the hex recently.

And now Vancouver Canucks, who have WHL's best road record, have proved too much for the inhospitable Stampeders, drubbing the hosts 5-3 Thursday.

The win gave Vancouver sole possession of second place in the league, leaving Calgary tied with Seattle Bombers for third.

In other league play, the lowly New Westminster Royals managed to get a 2-2 sawoff with the league-leading Saskatoon Quakers.

Vancouver's win put it within two points of Saskatoon and they have a chance for a tie when they meet sixth-place Edmonton Flyers tonight. Saskatoon will be idle.

New Westminster's one point did nothing to its seventh place standing.

FRANCIS BEHAVES

Canucks' hot-tempered goalie, Emile Francis, behaved himself in the Calgary game. He got only one penalty—two minutes for holding, served by Andy Bathgate.

Harry Dick, Walt Atanas, Larry Popein, Bill Wylie and Don Smith scored Vancouver's goals. Roy Kelly scored twice for Calgary and Frank Ashworth got one.

Alex Kaleta, the league's top scorer, pushed one past Royals' Luciene Dechene. Cy Rouse got Quakers' other goal, Ollie Dorohoy and Claude Robert doing the honors for Royals.

Canucks held their lead right through. They led 3-0 in the first period, 3-2 in the second and outscored Calgary 2-1 in the third.

Quakers were leading 1-0 at the end of the first and 2-0 early in the second before Royals broke through for a goal. New Westminster got the game's last tally in the third.

Habs Threaten Red Wing Lead

New York 8, Detroit 2; Montreal 4, Toronto 1
Chicago 3, Boston 3

Those New York Rangers are surprising fellows. Early in the National Hockey League season they settled comfortably in the league cellar, a spot cynics claim they almost have reserved season after season.

But now and then the Blue Shirts stage an uprising.

Thursday night was one of those nights for Bill Cook's boys. They downed the league-leading Red Wings 8-2 at Detroit in New York's biggest scoring spree of the season. In both their two previous starts the Rangers had been shut out.

While the Wings were dropping their first home game to the Rangers in more than a year, Montreal won its second straight game against Toronto to move within one point of the league leadership. The Maple Leafs bowed 4-1 after being defeated 1-0 at home the night before by the same Canadiens.

In the night's other game, the smallest crowd of the season at Boston, 6,101, watched Chicago Black Hawks and the Bruins play to a 3-3 tie.

The Red Wings' drubbing was one of the most one-sided they have ever suffered at home. Paul Ronty and Jack Stoddard led the New York attack with two goals each. Wally Hergesheimer, rookie Aldo Guidolin, Neil Strain and Hy Buller each counted one in the scoring scramble. For Detroit, veterans Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe were the marksmen.

HABS GAIN

Montreal's victory over Toronto pulled them five points ahead of third-place Chicago. Maurice Richard scored twice for Montreal with Floyd Curry and Elmer Lach providing the others. Toronto's old pro, centre Max Bentley, back in action only a short time after a six-week layoff with an injured back, scored the Leaf goal.

Jerry Couture was the margin in Chicago's squeezing a tie at Boston. He scored two of the Hawks goals, including the tying one, both in the third period while Hal Laycoe was in the penalty box.

Jimmy McFadden had given the Hawks an early lead only to have Fleming Mackell, Real Chevrefils and Pentti Lund score and give the Bruins the edge until the last few minutes of the game.

No games are scheduled tonight.

Saanich Inlet's 1952 'Kingfish'

Empress Hotel valet Jimmy James won the title of "Kingfish" of 1952 in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association by reeling in the largest salmon caught during the year in Saanich Inlet. It went 49 pounds and won him this collection of silverware, presented at Thursday night's annual meeting. Other big fish catchers also received their awards. (Times photo.)

Times to Again Sponsor Derby

Wes Fulton Named Chairman Of Annual Solarium Event

By ROY THORSEN

The Victoria Daily Times will again be working alongside the anglers in this year's promotion of the popular benefit salmon derby for the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

That was the unanimous decision of close to 125 members of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association at their annual meeting Thursday night in the Club Sirocco.

There were indications that this year's prize list in the derby to get money for the institution caring for and mending sick and crippled kiddies, will be one of the finest yet. Details will be announced later.

This will be the fourth year running that this newspaper has joined hands with the angling clan to get a bundle of dollars for the hospital-school-home for small fry on the Malahat beach shores at Mill Bay.

FUNCTION CHAIRMAN

And Wesley J. "Wes" Fulton got a big hand when it was announced he will again head the committee that will manage the 1953 edition of the giant one-day classic in Saanich Inlet.

Wes worked with Harry Woolston, originator of the derby, last year in co-chairing the drive. Woolston, however, has been since transferred by his firm to Vancouver.

Association president Wil Wilson (re-elected) was proud to show that the 1952 derby netted $2,746—the biggest purse ever turned over to the Solarium since the derby was inaugurated by Woolston in 1946.

Fulton, commenting on the last derby, expressed thanks to Times staff members for doing "a really grand job."

LETTER OF THANKS

Secretary George Douglas read a letter of sincere thanks from the board of directors of the Solarium, which Wilson referred to as "a message to us from a group that is grateful for our efforts to help out in the financial problems of a great institution."

COAST SOCCER POSTPONED

Saturday's scheduled Coast Soccer League match between Victoria and New Westminster Royals has been postponed, United president George Eade announced today. Wet grounds was given as the reason.

West Figure Skating Meet Opens Today

EDMONTON (CP) — Figure skaters from across the West lace on their skates here today and begin the chase for 15 trophies and championships in the Western Canada figure skating meet.

Singles competitions were first on tap. Novice and junior events in both men's and women's sections were to complete compulsory school figures by tonight.

Senior men's and women's singles will be run off Saturday along with finals in all other events. Winners will be announced and awards presented following Saturday night's senior free skating and dance, pairs and fours finals.

Sonja Currie, 15-year-old skater from Calgary and Edmonton, is defending her senior women's singles title, but Billy Lewis of Vancouver had to withdraw his entry, leaving fellow Vancouverites Norman Walker and Brian Power to compete for his senior men's singles title. Miss Currie will have 10 opponents in her event.

Third Ladder Derby Approved by Anglers

By ROY THORSEN

A "ladder derby" will again feature the salmon competition program in Saanich Inlet this coming summer.

When Wil Wilson, re-elected to the presidential seat, asked the 125 member at the annual meeting of the Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association in the Club Sirocco if they wanted the 10-week ladder system continued for the third year he was greeted with a tremendous round of applause — a unanimous "yes."

Prior to the general meeting an extraordinary meeting approved changes in the by-laws to enable enlarging of the executive from 11 to 14 persons and eliminated the requirement of holding extraordinary meetings.

A nominating committee, headed by past president Dave Gray, submitted a list of officers to handle this year's business of the association. Those on the list were elected without a dissenting voice.

Officers are:

Wilson, president; Alfred (Andy) Anderson, first vice-president; Wes Fulton, second vice-president; George Douglas, secretary-treasurer; other members of the executive: Johnny Angus, Capt. A. C. Cruchley, Dave Donaldson, Joe Esselmont, Cliff Heglin, Jim McMillan, Jim Pord, Ray Ritchie and Ralph Wherry.

Thanks to the popularity of last year's $3,600 prize list in the ladder derby secretary Douglas was able to show the club emerged from 1952 operations with a bank balance of $934.

RECORD MEMBERSHIP

Douglas said he believed that the 1,165 senior and 109 junior members was a record membership for the association.

Wilson pointed out the reason why the club did not finish in the "red" from last year's operations was the $2 membership fee, a $1 increase over the previous year. The fee will be the same this year.

The plan for this year's prize list for the ladder derby will be decided by the directorate. However, the membership indicated that they would again like to see a good-sized power boat for first prize. Wilson said that it was planned to seek this year's top prize boat by advertising for tenders. He also hinted that an inboard-powered craft might be put up for second prize.

Wilson expressed thanks to the press, radio, boathouse owners and sporting goods stores and executive members generally for the fine effort they had put forward on behalf of the association last year. He paid special tribute to Heglin, Anderson and Douglas for their terrific job in handling the ladder derby.

Classed as solid friends of the association, the following received life memberships: Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, MLA; Logan Mayhew, Times' sports editor Bill Walker, CJVI sportscaster Ted Reynolds, Andy Anderson, Heglin and "Kingfish" Jim James.

Wilson urged members who do not qualify in the derby to assist directors on final fish-off day.

Capt. Proudfoot also addressed the anglers. He suggested that the association form a committee and discuss with him all angles on the proposed Buttle Lake damming.

Capt. Proudfoot said this would be decided at the coming session of the legislature. He pointed out to members that he had all the information available for their consideration.

"There is one sure thing," Proudfoot asserted, "we've got to have more power for the development of the island."

The popular friend of the sportsmen did say, however, that governments of the past have not put enough back into fish and game matters.

He said he would like to see B.C.'s game population increased and mentioned importing additional game birds.

Capt. Proudfoot warned sportsmen to "always keep 'on the bit' and fight everything that may take away more of your pleasures."

LANDY DRAWS INSIDE LANE

PERTH, Australia (AP)—John Landy, whose attempt Saturday to set a world record for the mile has created world-wide interest, got a break today. He drew lane No. 1 against eight other contestants for the Australian mile championship. Thus the 22-year-old Melbourne university student should avoid any early jostling for a clear run in his attempt to lower Gunder Haegg's world mark of 4.01.4.

A special classification for the main event is being prepared and will be announced at a later date.

Further information can be obtained from the secretary at E 2536.

Famed Horse Said Sold By Aga Khan

LONDON (AP)—The London Evening News said Thursday it is a "virtual certainty" that the Aga Khan has sold his champion horse, Tulyar, for $1,000,000 to an un-named American syndicate.

The newspaper says Hollywood insurance broker Jack Dempsey, has arranged with Lloyds to insure the horse at that price.

Wins Empire Title

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Frank Johnson of Manchester, England, tonight won the British Empire lightweight boxing title by beating Frankie Flannery, Australian champion, on a technical knockout in the 10th round.

Cut in Grilse Limit Future Possibility

A move is afoot to have the limit of grilse (salmon under three pounds) reduced.

This information came from president Wil Wilson of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association at the annual meeting Thursday night.

He stated he had heard two views from fisheries officials on the sportsmen's take of grilse. One had claimed the sportsmen's catch was not harmful to the future population of the salmon. Another had seen it the other way. Present limit is 10 a day per person.

"We are conservationists and if fisheries officials can prove to us that we are harmful to the future supply of salmon I believe we would accept a lower limit," said Wilson.

He indicated the association will keep in close touch with the matter.

Buddy New Champion Whatever That Means

Will Buddy Curtis be a proud boy now!

Thursday night, he became self-appointed Pacific Northwest heavyweight champion by taking a two-fall verdict over the former self-appointed champion, Ivan Kamaroff, in the main event of Ken Williamson's three-bout mat card.

The California badman took the first fall only to have Kamaroff tie it up and then employed some of his shady tactics to smear Ivan for the third fall.

Curtis will not be recognized by the National Wrestling Alliance as champion because there is no belt or official title to go with his evening's work.

In the semi-main, Victoria's grappling pride and joy, Chief Thunderbird came out of retirement once more to take the bout from Mike Alfano after the latter was disqualified for using illegal tactics.

At one time during the bout, Alfano got carried away and went after Thunderbird with the chief's own tomahawk.

Dick Hayes and Gordon Hessel battled to no decision in the special event opener. Hessel was knocked out after falling heavily from the ring into the front row and Hayes refused to take the victory.

If Only He'd Kept His Big Mouth Shut

NEW YORK (AP)—A manager who accompanied his fighter to court to pay the boxer's $650 in traffic penalties Thursday was himself fined $1,000 before the session was over.

Steve Ellis, 36, went to court with Chico Vejar, middleweight, who was fined last week for ignoring 13 traffic summonses.

Chief Magistrate John Murtagh posed for photographers as Chico handed over $650 to a clerk. But the scene changed swiftly when Ellis mentioned that he thought there were two tickets outstanding against him.

The smiles faded when a check disclosed 22 traffic summonses outstanding against Ellis. He was fined $900 for 18 tickets for parking in restricted areas and $100 for four overtime parking tickets.

Tri-City Boxing Show Carded Here Saturday

Three cities—Victoria, Vancouver and Chemainus,—will throw some of their best ring talent forward on Saturday night in the 10-bout card presented at the Britannia Hall, Arena Way, by the Victoria Amateur Boxing Association.

Topping the card will be a double main event between Vancouver and Victoria beak-busters. Vancouver's classy Des Archer, 1952 Pacific Northwest middleweight champion, will be defending his reputation against the assaults of the pride of Esquimalt, Bert Wilkinson. This will be the second meeting for the battlers, Archer being one up in the score.

DOUBLE MAIN

The other half of the double main matches Esquimalt's Wayne Robertson against Bob Goldie of Vancouver in what is expected to be a fast and furious 129-pound jig.

The Royal Canadian Navy will have a trio of representatives in the show, all in the lighter weight divisions.

Joe LeBlanc meets Vancouver's Jack Barclay in the semi-main; Navy's Jim Hurley goes against Jim Johnson in the 121-pound class while Pat Gusway of Navy tangles with tigerish Loyd Tahouney of James Bay.

Another featured listing on the card is the 145-pound pairing between Skip Williams of Chemainus and Freddy Curtis of Fire Department.

Other bouts include Glen Woodley (Chemainus) vs. Tommy McGaw (Esquimalt—82 pounds; Bud Crabbe (Chemainus) vs. Bruce McLean (Esquimalt)—80 pounds; Pee Wee Chang (Chemainus) vs. John Larsen (Esquimalt)—65 pounds.

Curling Tips

By BONSPIELER

This is the fourteenth in a series dealing with the fine points of curling, written by a man who is well versed in the game that is growing in interests on Vancouver Island.

The instructional articles, each dealing with a single facet of the mechanics of curling, will appear in The Times regularly, and are guaranteed to make a first-class curler out of the most inexperienced novices if they are followed religiously.

Cut them out and save them—they may save your game.

The No-Slide Rule

Two or three years ago, the committee in charge of one of the larger open bonspiels in western Canada decided to enforce the no-slide rule. The real reason for this decision was based on the claim of a few of the officials that a long slider could slide out to either side of the centre line and remove opposition rocks that were well guarded. This claim was not exactly without foundation, because one rink of young curlers had, by riding the rock out to the side of the sheet, accomplished this feat much to the chagrin of the oldsters playing against them. Unfortunately, one or two members of the vanquished team, in indignation, pressed for the enforcement of the no-slide rule the following year, with the result that young rinks stayed away in large numbers.

Personally, I am in sympathy with the old-timers who wrathfully castigate the sliders for uninvited intrusion into the inner sanctums of curling rinks, but I won't buy the idea that they should be legislated against. The problem is one of education, not corporal punishment. None of these sliding riders have, or ever will win major competitions even though occasionally they ruffle the tempers of their opponents by winning the odd important match. I feel sorry for the young fellows whose unrealistic intepretation of the slide causes such furore in rule committee discussions. They are their own worst enemies on the ice, for if they persist in using the same style, they can never rise above mediocrity, but when in later years they have to fight portliness and old age, as well as their opponents, their creaking joints and moans of anguish will rapidly remove them from the ice to the arm chairs behind the glass.

Vancouver Boxers Take Four Titles

TACOMA (CP) — Vancouver boxers, masters of the lighter divisions, captured four of 10 championships as the two-day Tacoma Golden Gloves Tournament wound up Thursday night.

The Vancouverites dominated the earlier bouts to take the flyweight, bantamweight, featherweight and light-welterweight crowns.

Vancouver flyweight Jack Schriber decisioned fellow-townsman Gerry Boucher to win the first championship of the evening.

In the bantamweight division, Huge Meikle, Vancouver, won by a decision from Al Martin, Seattle, and Jackie Wilson, Vancouver, won the featherweight titled by a decision over Buddy Pearson. Pearson, also from Vancouver, won the title last year.

Then the Canadians took over again. Norm Jorgenson, still another Vancouver scrapper, kept the title he won here last year in decisioning Gordon McDonald, Vancouver. Jorgenson is a light-welterweight.

Woods Loses Split Decision

VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—Hard-punching Jackie Blair, 132, Hollywood, Thursday won a split decision over Bobby Woods, 130, Pacific northwest featherweight champion, in their 10-round go before 2,200 at the Exhibition Gardens here.

Woods rocked Blair in the first and threw his best shots but Blair took command and won every round up to the sixth, except the fourth which he lost on a low blow.

Woods rallied to win the seventh and opened cuts over both Blair's eyes but Blair came back in the ninth and won the final round handily. There were no knockdowns.

SUSPENSION REVIEWED

Pynn May Get Reprieve

There is a strong possibility that the 10-game suspension handed Gordy Pynn of the JBAA club by the Victoria Rugby Union for rough play may be lifted.

A league official said today that he could neither deny nor confirm the report, but admitted that the matter was now in the hands of the B.C. rugby union appeal board.

Pynn was suspended on Nov. 29 for, as one official said: "fisting a player in the face." The suspension as recommended by the disciplinary committee of the union was for 10 games and would have kept Pynn on the sidelines until all but the last game of the season.

JBAA appealed the ruling to the B.C. Rugby Union and their reply is expected sometime today.

Because they never had to deal with a case like this before, the three-man committee contacted the British Rugby Union at Twickenham, England, to see what the parent body would do in a similar case.

A league spokesman said the reply was that a player would be suspended for a fortnight or three weeks, which would amount to about three games.

However, the reply did not deal specially with the Pynn case, leaving the eventual disposition of the matter with the B.C. executive.

SOLDIERS TO VISIT MAINLAND

An Army advance unit will infiltrate into Vancouver tonight to make contact with PNE Indians at Kerrisdale Arena.

Racked with injuries and postings, Army will be the last Commercial Hockey League team to be the guest of a Vancouver team this season unless a post-season playoff between the two leagues is arranged.

Victoria teams have won two out of three games on Vancouver ice this season.

Leafs Near Cage Title

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Vancouver Clover Leafs have virtually clinched first place in the mainland Senior A Men's Basketball League with a 54-52 victory over the Eilers made possible by Sandy Robertson's desperation long-shot just before the final bell.

Robertson lifted a long one from the middle of the floor and off to one side. The ball dropped through the hoop cleanly.

SCIENCE ISN'T THRILLED

Moon Eclipse Significant To Astrologer and Shamen

An important event for astrologers, fortune tellers and Indian shamen takes place next Thursday, but for Victoria astronomers it will be just another eclipse of the moon.

The eclipse takes place when the moon moves into the cone-like shadow of the earth.

The phenomenum will be seen only partially in Victoria because most of the eclipse will be over by the time the moon rises here.

Those wishing to see the partial eclipse will have to go to some high promontory, like Mount Tolmie, as the spectacle will only be seen for a short period when the moon becomes visible in the east.

The eclipse will begin at 3.05 p.m. The total eclipse will end at 4.40. Then the moon will start moving out of the earth's shadow. At 5.40 it will be all over.

As the moon rises at 5.05 here, Victorians will have only about 35 minutes to see what is left of the eclipse.

Dr. R. M. Petrie, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Saanich, said the phenomenum is not of great astrophysical interest nowadays, though some observatories carry out spectrum observations of the moon.

But for mystics the eclipse has a deep significance, and many of the predictions for the coming year will be based on it.

Chinook Remains On Victoria Run Until March 15

MV Chinook will not be taken off her present Seattle-Victoria-Port Angeles schedule until March 15, according to officials of the Black Ball Line here.

Plans had originally been made to put the streamlined ferry exclusively on the Port Angeles run from the middle of February. However, delays have been encountered in readying the Black Ball freighter Iroquois to take over the Seattle-Port Townsend-Port Angeles freight run.

It is intended now to increase the Port Angeles schedule to two round trips daily March 15, with further increases to come when the tourist season gets under way.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

It is somewhat difficult for a lamebrain like myself to understand the recent increase in the price of water.

Price increases are usually associated with shortages, and I have never noticed any shortage of water around here.

There is lots and lots of water floating around in Juan de Fuca Strait, doing nothing but keeping a few ships off the bottom.

And, come to think of it, there is more water than necessary in those containers sold at the government stores.

Provincial Paper, a monthly magazine published by one of the large Canadian paper manufacturers, has some world-shattering words of advice for salesmen.

It suggests the salesmen leave their stories—both risque and just plain funny—at home when they go out to sell.

Better still, says Provincial Paper, use them at night to put the kiddies to sleep.

I have two objections to these suggestions.

In the first place, you cannot throw away a 20th century tradition like the salesman's story without disrupting trade and commerce.

With no story to tell, the salesman will have nothing to do but sell. Therefore, he will get his day's work done in no time at al, and be left with idle hands.

And goodness knows what trouble an idle salesman might get himself into.

The second, and more important objection is the idea of telling salesman's stories to kiddies to put them to sleep.

This comes under the heading of cruelty to children.

A man from Saskatchewan, accused of not signalling before driving his car away from the curb, said he was not accustomed to making hand signals in Saskatchewan.

Yet, every time there is an election, the people of Saskatchewan seem to signal for a left turn.

"D. A. V." writes a very nice letter, which is enthusiastic about Punch, tolerant of me, and a little annoyed because this column persists in spelling Ed Farey's name "Fairey."

Ed objects, too, so I guess I had better mend my ways and leave out the "i."

But what worries me, how will a disc jockey get along without "I"?

Between Times has been asked to comment on the report in yesterday's paper that B.C. may introduce a "Gas Act."

My only comment: No comment.

Ministers of Three Provinces Hear Railway Nationalization Suggestion

Agricultural ministers of the three western provinces conferred in Victoria today with officials of the Western Federation of Agriculture with regard to the use of oils as substitutes for dairy products.

Federation officials numbering nearly 100 are holding a conference at the Empress Hotel prior to the annual convention of the National Federation of Agriculture, to open here next Tuesday.

Agricultural ministers David Ure of Alberta, R. Robertson of Manitoba and Kenneth Kiernan of British Columbia outlined their respective governments' views with regard to the use of oils for the manufacture of dairy products such as margarine.

The meeting was held behind closed doors as the matter will be fully discussed on the floor of the convention next week.

Earlier today Henry Young, president of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, recommended public ownership of railways in Canada if freight rates cannot be kept down.

His recommendation followed a resolution urging the government to maintain the present Crows Nest freight rate "at all cost."

"If the freight rates are rescinded, it will cost prairie grain producers untold millions of dollars," said George McConnell of McConnell, Manitoba. "It will also cost the consumers plenty of money."

W. Mueller of Spirit River, Alta., urged that the PGE be connected with the Alberta Railway. He said if this was done, farmers in both provinces would benefit.

Time of Mr. Gardiner's address is not definitely known but it is expected he will speak to the parley Tuesday afternoon.

Boys' School Admitted in Poor Shape

Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin today agreed with the Greater Vancouver Community Chest that conditions at Coquitlam Boys' Industrial School are "shocking and deplorable."

The minister, commenting on the chest report which called for immediate construction of a new industrial school, said he had no criticism to offer on the chest's finding's, but added "delay in proceeding with a new school" is the fault of the former government.

The minister made no comment regarding the Social Credit government's plan for construction of a new institution at Brannon Lake, near Nanaimo, but he recently denied reports that the project had been shelved.

The Community Chest report on Bisco followed investigations of a special committee which visited the school.

Sharply criticizing the present school, the committee said it concurred completely and without reservation" to a 1950 government investigation recommending discontinuance of the Coquitlam school and construction of a new unit.

Urge Compromise On Residence of City's Firemen

A compromise proposal which would permit city firemen to reside within a three-mile circle of City Hall, instead of just within city limits was reached at a City Council finance committee meeting today.

David M. Pye, headed a delegation from the firemen's union which protested the city's residence restriction ruling, requiring firemen to live within city limits.

He said firemen who wish to take advantage of the Veterans' Land Act, are prevented from doing so by the restriction. He suggested a five-mile circle restriction.

The union delegation agreed to take the compromise proposal back to its membership. If the latter approves, finance committee will recommend the change to City Council.

BIKE LICENSE REPORT

A proposal to increase bicycle licenses for adults from 50 cents to $1 was laid on the table by City Council finance committee today pending a report by City Manager Cecil Wyatt.

One-at-a-Time Rule Plagues Patron, Too

British Columbia's race-horse style beer drinkers, and the waiters who serve them, are violent in their protest against the "one-glass-at-a-time rule."

It was enforced when the Stevens liquor report drew attention to the violation of the provincial statute to this effect.

"A working man drinks his first glass before you can make change," said James Thirlwall, head waiter at the Tudor House and secretary of Local 513, Beverage Dispensers' Union.

"With this new ruling he has to wait until we can get around to him again to serve his second. Generally by that time he has left to make his bus connections."

Mr. Thirlwall said his union, and other locals in B.C., will protest the ruling to Attorney-General Robert W. Bonner.

Patrons do not like enforcement of the rule, and many are ordering bottled beer in order to have two glasses at one time in front of them.

"Consumption now is set by the pace of the fastest drinker in the crowd," said one observer of drinking habits. "As he sits with his glass empty the trend of his companions at the same table is to empty their glasses quicker than they otherwise would so they can call the waiter for a second round."

Waiters claim they are working harder and selling less beer, and that business has dropped as much as one-third.

One beer parlor operator here said he would like to see the two-glass rule rigidly enforced, and customers have claimed that unless they tipped the waiter more than usual they were ignored under the "one-glass" rule.

Veterans' clubs now are more exacting in checking membership of persons seeking admittance.

Production of cards is demanded by a doorman, and a membership card showing dues unpaid brings a rejection.

Scots Make Plans For Burns Night Haggis, Banquet

The 194th annual commemorative occasion will be celebrated at a traditional banquet to be held at 7 p.m. at Loughed's Banquet Hall. The event is sponsored by the Burns Club.

Rev. William Allan will give the "toast to the immortal memory." Other speakers include Harry Smith, principal of Victoria High School; Duncan MacBride, Rev. J. L. W. McLean, Alec Allnutt, Capt. D. G. Proudfoot, MLA for Victoria, and E. M. Whyte.

The address to the haggis will be given by Rev. T. H. McAllister. The haggis will be carried by John McKay.

Vocal selections will be given by John Bell, Miss Louise Martin and Mrs. Vera Barclay.

AN AGE OF GREATNESS —No. 18—Tempted to France

Now there was time for bear-baiting and bull-baiting, for cockfights and for pleasure. Not for a decade had England known a single year free from rebellion, massacre or national calamity. Under Elizabeth there was calm. Meanwhile, there was Mary in Scotland proposing an alliance, asking only to be named Elizabeth's heir. The uprising French Huguenots were offering Elizabeth Havre if she would help them resist the Catholic Duke of Guise. To have a foothold back in France! That was temptation to an Elizabeth who could sternly refuse Mary's request to be recognized as her successor. For the first time the Queen faltered in reality and not as part of policy. Three thousand English went to France. Then 3,000 more. But Dieppe last lost. Rouen wast lost and the French civil war collapsed. And still Elizabeth clung to Havre.

Ald. Christie Wins Chairmanship Fight

Skillings Gives Over Welfare For Parks Chair

Ald. Margaret D. Christie today won her fight to retain chairmanship of city council's health and welfare committee.

Peace came at a specially-called meeting of the committee when Ald. Brent Murdoch moved and Ald. Waldo Skillings seconded a motion that she retain the chairmanship she has held for the eight years she has been on council.

A second motion moved by Ald. Christie and seconded by Ald. Murdoch made Ald. Skillings permanent chairman of the parks committee, which carries with it a seat on the executive committee.

Controversy started when Mayor Claude Harrison announced committee appointments and recommended that Mrs. Christie head parks and Ald. Skillings, health and welfare.

Mrs. Christie refused to chair the first parks meeting and said she would "rather resign" than not do "the work she felt the people elected her to do."

COULD CHANGE

The mayor said he merely recommended chairmanships and that the individual committees were free to name their own chairmen. Ald. Skillings disagreed. He said it was standard practice for council to accept the mayor's recommendations.

The matter was deadlocked.

FIRST BREAK

First break came when a letter signed by five of six aldermen approached, urged Ald. Skillings to accept permanent chairmanship of parks and thus leave the health and welfare to Mrs. Christie.

The aldermen asked the move in the interests of harmony and in view of Mrs. Christie's work on health and welfare in the past.

"I felt it was the wish of council and had no alternative but to accept," said Ald. Skillings. "I believed it would result in harmony and co-operation and that is why I agreed."

Arbitration Continues on Teachers' Pay

Arbitration board proceedings on wage increases sought by Greater Victoria teachers, that would mean an avereage increase of $800 per year per teacher, were scheduled to resume at 2 p.m. today at Greater Victoria School Board offices.

The board consisting of Lawrence Jacks, T. W. Ellis and Nathan Nemetz, QC, that conducted hearings at Up-Island centres, opened the Victoria sittings Thursday.

Teachers have asked for increases of from $300 to $1,000 per year that would increase the 1952 payroll of $1,737,541 by another $377,190.

Teachers claim their pay has not increased materially for the last number of years, and that the new schedule asked is justified.

"I want to get out of your minds—if it is there—the idea that the size of the increase has anything to do with whether the increase is fair," the board was told Thursday afternoon by C. D. Ovans, general secretary of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

W. H. M. Haldane, appearing for Greater Victoria School Board, remarked that the increase requested was the equivalent of a 4½-mill tax increase in Victoria.

CHARITY GRANT BAN URGED ON COUNCIL

City of Victoria will make no charitable grants in 1953, if council approves a recommendation of its finance committee today.

"We should be just before we're generous," said Mayor Claude Harrison in urging that the 1952 policy of "no grants" be continued.

While he favored the policy, Ald. Robert Macmillan protested that council had already approved a $1,000 grant for the Dominion Drama Festiva to be held in Victoria this spring.

"That is different," said Ald. Percy Scurrah. "It is publicity and will bring business to the city"

The mayor agreed..

The ruling resulted in no discussion on requests from the Navy League and the YMCA for grants in lieu of taxes.

Sanitation Inspector Urges Dump Removal

City Food Industries Complaining Of Garbage Dump Dust Nuisance

Removal of the city garbage plant from the Inner Harbor, at the foot of Swift Street, to the public works yard on Garbally Road was recommended today by Elwood E. Gropp, chief sanitary inspector for Victoria and Esquimalt.

The recommendation was contained in the annual report of the division of sanitary inspection presented to a Union Board of Health meeting.

"Complaints were received regarding the dust nuisance from the garbage wharf from food industries located in this area," Mr. Gropp stated.

He asked council to give serious consideration to removal of the plant.

It was suggested that sale of the present "valuable wharf properties" be considered in order "to defray cost of the new establishment."

During the year two food premises were closed for not complying with minimum requirements and seven major food investigations were carried out.

"The major item requiring attention in grocery and confectionary stores was hand-washing facilities," according to Mr. Gropp.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN

The report noted a gradual improvement in the general standards of the restaurant industry.

Reporting on rodent control, Mr. Gropp said routine baiting and trapping was carried out at city parks, garbage wharf, Clover Point and Dallas Road area.

There were 249 infestations reported by citizens in the Victoria-Esquimalt area and locations were baited until all were eliminated.

"Public co-operation in rat-proofing and elimination of harborages has been excellent," the inspector stated.

Turning to work of the housing control program, he said 29 structures were demolished during the year. Lack of a definite policy relating to zoning has hampered the work to some extent, he said.

The housing control program is carried on to familiarize persons renting accommodation to the public with the standards of housing required by by-law and to achieve compliance where possible without undue hardships to owners or occupants, Mr. Gropp reported.

LATE LIQUOR BUYING BRISK

It may have been just the novelty, but the Johnson Street liquor store had a sizeable rush of thirsty customers Thursday when it stayed open until 11 p.m. for the first time.

Vendor George Davies said although business was brisk, his staff had no difficulty.

Customers appeared to enjoy purchasing their liquor supplies in their evening leisure hours, instead of rushing to get to the liquor store after working hours before the former 6 p.m. closing.

The new hours were ordered by Attorney-General Robert Bonner earlier in the week at the suggestion of the Stevens Report on liquor.

Thieves Grab Jewelry Loot In Night Raid

Burglars who broke into a unit of the Windsor Motor Court and Motel, Gorge Road, Thursday night, stole about $665 worth of jewelry and clothing, city police report.

The break-in of the unit occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Abott, of Abbotsford, took place between 7.30 and 8.15 p.m. Entry was made by breaking a window to release the catch.

Investigating the burglary, Detectives Louis Callan and Norman Bath report that a new suit worth $65 was stolen, also an antique brooch worth $300 and a gold ring with diamonds worth $300.

The thieves also took a bottle of liquor.

FINANCIAL MANAGER of B.C. Power Commission, John A. Christie, has been named to the newly-created post which combines the position of treasurer and chief accountant, it was announced today. Appointment follows resignation of J. D. W. Blyth, CA, former treasurer, who has accepted a position in Toronto. Mr. Christie, graduate of McGill, formerly chief accountant with the Vancouver School Board, and RCAF veteran, has called Victoria home since boyhood. He joined the Commission in 1947 as chief accountant.

JUDGMENT SURPRISE PACKET

Sailors to Serve Again As Sentences Suspended

John Ernest Myers, a sailor from HMCS Naden, was surprised at what happened when he went before B.C. Court of Appeal today to argue against conviction on a car theft charge.

The court held that his appeal against conviction could not be considered but authorized that he be given a suspended sentence on the year's prison term to which he was sentenced.

Myers was surprised since he had not filed an appeal against sentence. Papers for such an appeal were filed after the hearing, however, and given approval by the court.

The unusual procedure came when Hugh Botterell, legal counsel for another sailor, James Wayne Pratt, charged and convicted in connection with the same offence as Myers, withdrew Pratt's appeal against conviction and successfully argued for a suspended sentence.

The court felt that in fairness, Myers deserved the same treatment.

Both sailors were sentenced to a year in prison last Dec. 1 after they pleaded guilty in police court to having stolen a car at Duncan. They were arrested at Colwood when the car hit a police vehicle.

The pair has been in Oakalla for the last 53 days. The navy has agreed to let them continue their naval service now their sentences have been suspended.

Here's An Easy Cure For Mid-Winter Blues

By PENNY SAVER

Wanted—a cure for mid-winter blues about weary clothes.

One wades through today's soaken surface thankful for the few tired garments one has and hope to scrape together enough money for a new outfit by spring.

What's the answer?

Give it a little thought and you'll find it is obvious and easy to carry out.

Sew a cheery new colored lining into an old jacket. The big, bright fashion news for spring is jackets lined to match a dress. Linings are meant to show. They will be in flowery prints or pale pastels.

So—if you're feeling low, pick up a sparkling remnant to contrast with or match the color in a dress or blouse you already have. Choose your lining in a color which will be holding its own by spring—reddish hues, pink, softer shades of yellow, green or brown. If you haven't much of a rainbow to choose from, line your jacket in any shade with a new tone to it, and wear it with your basic black dress.

Sewing linings sounds tricky, but it isn't. Don't let that word tailoring put you off. If you haven't a clue about simple tailoring steps, drop into your sewing centre. The big thing in handling lining is the order in which you take each step.

Changing a lining is a good introduction to tailoring details, since your jacket will be already made. You can see the way the jacket is finished when you take the old lining out. Remove it carefully. You will want to use it for your pattern.

When you're through you will see what a lift that color gives. Be sure to wear it open. Shed some of the glow on others.

Now for this job of lining you'll want to pick up remnants and save pennies.

Every Wednesday morning one of the leading department stores gives you an opportunity to pick up remnants and another yardage department offers you remnants every day that have been slashed to one-third to one-half in price. On an average there is one-and-a-half to two yards in a piece. There are a few remnants with as much as four yards in them.

WHY GROW OLD?

Pimples, Superfluous Hair Are Problems of Readers

A reader worries that shaving the legs will increase the growth of hair on the legs.

Q. "I shave my legs and can see no difference in the hair growth as a result. All my friends tell me that it will make the hair grow in thicker. Is this true?"

A. I do not believe a word of it. After all, each hair grows from one root and I cannot see how shaving could possibly create new roots.

Q. "I am 14 years old and am bothered with pimples. What can I do about them? I used to be good looking but pimples have ruined that. At what age should a girl begin using cold cream?

A. In the first place keep your hands off of the pimples. Young people do not realize how they spread this trouble by picking at their faces. Whenever some of the bacteria from a pimple gets into a nearby pore you are apt to have a new crop.

Cut down on rich foods in the diet and be careful about spreading infection when washing the face. Apply a drying antiseptic lotion at night. Your physician or dermatologist can prescribe one for you. It is best for the young girl not to use cold cream, so long as she has pimples or black heads unusual amount of oil which girls and boys your age have in the skin. You should not add to it with creams.

Q. "Will you please tell me how to get rid of unwanted hair? I have hair on my upper lip and my forehead. I am ashamed to look people in the face. How can I get rid of it inexpensively? It ruins my looks. Otherwise I am considered attractive.

A. Electrolysis is the best way. Since you do not have a great deal of hair I do not think this would be extremely expensive. See a well-trained operator and ask if you can pay for this treatment on a budget basis.

Q. "I am 18 years old and a sophomore in college. I am 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weigh 148 pounds. My bust measures 37 inches; waist, 27 inches, and hips, 38 inches. How much should I lose? The skirts and sweater suit combinations so popular make me look hippy. At least I am always worrying about looking hippy. Could you please answer my problem in the paper?"

A. Your hips are not really because these come from the out of proportion. For a good figure you are allowed two inches difference between the bust and hip measurement. You should lose a little weight, around 12 pounds. Do this by leaving off rich trimmings such as candy, cake, cookies, desserts, fried foods, cream and fat meat. Eat a well-balanced diet. You might take hip reducing exercises while you reduce if you wish to perfect your figure.

This Girl Is Forced To Hurt Someone

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When parents strongly object to the young man their daughter goes with, there is the problem of which one will be hurt—the parents or the daughter. The sooner the problem is settled, the better for all concerned. That is my advice to the young woman who wrote:

Hurlock

(Q) "My friend has a problem that has been disturbing her for some time now. She has been going steady for two years with a fine young man. Since her family is a strict Greek family, they strongly object to her seeing this young man or allowing him in their home. They want her to marry one of their own people and take part in the Greek activities so, on several occasions, she has gone to Greek dances but has found it very difficult to become interested in her Greek acquaintances. My friend is upset about this matter and she does not want to give up the man she loves but, on the other hand, she will never do anything to hurt or upset her parents. What can she do?"

(A) It is water over the dam now, but I cannot see how your friend managed to go steady with a young man for two years and contemplate marriage with him when her parents are so strongly opposed to him as you say they are.

Why didn't they break up this romance long ago before their daughter became so fond of him? And why did they permit her to give up the activities of their own group long enough to become bored with them and develop new interests?

As matters now stand, either she or her parents will be hurt. If she really loves this young man, she is bound to be very unhappy not only when she breaks up with him but for many months to come. It may even mean that she will never find anyone who pleases her family and whom she can love.

If, on the other hand, she marries the man she loves, she will hurt her family. Whether this will be a permanent or only a temporary hurt will depend upon how set they are in their desire to have her marry a man of their own national origin. Your friend must decide whom she wants to hurt.

Canned Food Scene Has Changed A Great Deal in Past 25 Years

Did you ever stand in the middle of a large grocery store and look around absolutely amazed at the great army of canned fruits and vegetables to be seen on the shelves? How the number has changed in just a few years! Why, 25 years ago, homemakers had never heard of half the canned foods we buy today. It is, indeed, a great boon to us all that, in over 800 Canadian factories each summer tremendous quantities of fruits and vegetables are canned, making it possible for us to buy a great variety of these foods during the many months they are not in season—and at such reasonable prices. It is a real boon, too, when it comes to preparing winter meals that, with a little ingenuity, a can of fruit or vegetable may be transformed into something appetizing and intriguing.

EYE APPEAL

Admittedly, can labels, with their attractive pictures of luscious Canadian fruits and vegetables, are designed for eye-appeal since the colorful food inside the container is hidden from view. However, besides the beautiful art work a great deal of important information is given on each and every label. Home economists point out that no one can mistake what she is buying because the name of the product is printed right on the label in large letters. The size of the can is there, too. The standard "family" size cans for fruits and vegetables are the 15 fluid ounce, the 20 fluid ounce and the 28 fluid ounce. Special sizes are allowed for asparagus, whole kernel, vacuum-packed corn and fruit and vegetable juices. Incidentally, the word "fluid ounce" means the amount the can contains, not the weight of the fluid in it. For example, a 20 fluid ounce can of peaches contains two and one-half fluid ounce standard measuring cups of peaches and syrup. The grade mark is something else of importance printed on the label for it tells us the quality of the canned food. In order of quality the grades of canned fruits and vegetables are "fancy quality," choice quality" and "standard quality." All grades of canned fruits and vegetables are good food and all grades have their uses. One idea that some may have is that there is a greater proportion of liquid to solid food in "standard quality" canned vegetables and fruits than in either "fancy quality" or "choice quality." This is not true. There is the same amount of drained vegetable or fruit in the can, irrespective of the grade.

Eliminate a fine scratch from wood furniture with a furniture polish containing a wood dye. Allow the dye to sink in. Then rub entire surface with a flannel cloth and plain furniture polish. For a deep scratch, you may have to remove the shellac and retouch the spot with a brush and thin shellac.

Mirrors made of thin plates of polished metal were common in the earliest times.

Handicrafts Down the Ages Surveyed By Women's Group

Deadly boomerang of the Australian aboriginal, delicate pillow-lace from Holland and Belgium, tapestry of the Middle Ages and finely-woven linen used by ancient Egyptians for their mummy wrappings shared equal place in a survey of handicrafts down the ages which formed program of Lake Hill Women's Institute social meeting for January.

Convened by Mrs. G. Howland, the several talks spanned time and distance in terms of manual arts. Emphasis was on needlecraft, illustrated in a display of modern Netherlands work brought by Mrs. B. Sekreve, recently arrived from Holland, and hand-made toy animal patterns brought by Mrs. Eric Hagen.

President Mrs. Roscoe Myles traced handicraft down the ages. Thousands of years before the Christian era Egyptians wove fine linens in which to wrap their mummies. Tapestry-weaving was a great art in the Middle Ages. Church embroideries early attained wonderful richness of design. Needlecraft had other merits: the late King George VI, one of the world's busiest men, made petit point for relaxation.

Mrs. Sekreve paid tribute to Canadian soldiers who helped to deliver her country in the late war. Through them her interest in Canada had been stimulated. Household skills, she said, were part of every Dutch schoolgirl's education, and a well-filled linen closet was the ambition of every Dutch housewife. But the linens must be her own handiwork. Several lovely examples of hand-made linens, embroideries and pillow-lace were in the collection shown.

In her description of craftwork of the Australian aboriginals, Mrs. M. Cowan included references to scenic attractions of her country. Though culturally still in the Stone Age, the aboriginal, she said, had developed to a high degree the few skills necessary to his existence, such as the boomerang, spears, shields and other fighting weapons. These people were the world's most expert users of stone.

Mrs. W. S. Webster spoke of importance of craftwork as a means of self-expression, and Mrs. E. Glover gave a resume of the various talks. Mrs. X. Rey convened tea.

By ELIZABETH FORBES

She was a little girl you looked at twice. Fair curling hair, blue eyes, pink and white complexion. And her mother had her dressed in cherry red . . . coat, cap and leggings.

They were close to me in the coffee shop. The mother had ordered vanilla ice cream for the little girl . . . coffee for herself.

But the little girl did not want vanilla ice cream. She wanted a chocolate sundae. Mother said "no" . . . little girl became sulky and pushed away the vanilla ice cream. Mother said "no" again . . . and tears began to appear in the little girls eyes. They spilled over and ran down her cheeks. She began to sob . . . louder . . . louder. . . . Everyone looked at her . . . and she was so pretty it was hard not to feel sorry for her.

"Bessie"

Mother blushed a deep crimson, called to the waitress and ordered the chocolate sundae. The tears stopped . . . and the little girl was all smiles again as she ate her sundae.

When they left the coffee shop, the woman sitting next to me said: "There goes the makings of a first-class tearful tyrant.

"Bad enough at that age, but Heaven preserve us when we come across them later in life, for their methods are really deadly in their effect."

She blew cigarette smoke vigorously down her nose, tamped the cigarette butt out on her plate and looked at me with wide-open, serious eyes.

"That little girl is exceptionally pretty," she said, "and consequently she is being utterly spoiled, no doubt by everyone in her family.

"She knows right now that she can usually get what she wants by dissolving into tears at the least provocation.

"You saw the mother . . . she began to feel like a brute when the tears started to flow. And that's the way the child makes everyone feel before she is finished . . . so everyone gives way to her. As soon as she has achieved her objective, she is immediately all smiles again . . . exactly like an April day!"

They Weep Their Way Through Life

The woman next to me lighted another cigarette and went on talking, rather fiercely.

"The deadliest thing about it is that tearful tyrants, as I call them, go steadily on through life, weeping their way towards their own particular goals, being as completely selfish as they know how, and absolutely disregarding anyone else's feelings."

She shrugged her shoulders expressively as she added, "of course they are usually of our own sex.

"I wonder how many young men in love have failed to realize that a tearful fiancee will eventually turn into a perfectly tyrannical wife, who makes a point of using her tears to advantage every time she wants her own way.

"I'd like to tell every mother in Victoria that if they have a little girl in their family showing signs of this tearful tyrannry, to take the matter in hand at once.

"The mother should let her child know tears are wasted. If she is kind but equally firm on the matter she may be surprised to find how quickly the child will see the sense in what she says.

"In other words, the child will realize that she has met her match, and there will be a feeling of peace around the house, which was very likely noticeably missing before."

The woman next to me stood up to leave the coffee shop. She buttoned her coat high around her throat, pulled on her gloves. Then she looked at me again, and nodded her head wisely.

"Tearful tyrants must be taught the meaning of 'playing the game in life'," she said, "and lessons of this kind cannot start too soon.

"I know . . . because I was one of the little weepers when I was a child . . . but I had a wise mother. I soon learned tears were a waste of time."

Provincial Conference, Women Of Moose, in City Sunday

Midwinter conference of the Moose, held under auspices of the College of Regents, will be held on Sunday in this city with Victoria Chapter, No. 25, the hostess group.

Members of chapters in many parts of British Columbia will be in Victoria for the occasion.

Theme of the conference, "Achievement" has been chosen by deputy grand regent Dolcina Guelpa to mark an important anniversary year in the order.

Sixty-five years ago, leaders with vision and courage saw the need of a fraternity such as the Moose. Records since then shows 40 years of service to children through Mooseheart, the child city, described as a child research laboratory for the training and equipment of boys and girls to fill a useful place in the world; also 30 years of service to the aged through Moosehaven, the city of contentment.

These two humanitarian projects are major contributions of the Moose to the betterment of the world and set standards to follow in aiding local community projects and in fulfilling the Moose belief of "service to others."

Program conference chairman Irene Moss, senior regent, Prince George Chapter, No. 936, will preside at the opening session at 1.30 in K. of P. Hall, Cormorant Street, when a large class of candidates will be initiated. The ritual will be exemplified by honor chapters, Prince George, Prince Rupert, Ocean Falls, Westview and Surrey.

At conclusion of the meeting, child care and training chairman, Olive Eden, Victoria Chapter, will convene a buffet supper. In the evening an informal get-together will be held in the board room, Douglas Hotel.

14 Parts of Vitamin All Act On Human Body in Various Ways

One of the early vitamins to be discovered was called vitamin B. But now it is recognized that this is by no means a single substance, and what was originally known as vitamin B consists of a considerable number of different chemical compounds having different actions.

Approximately fourteen separate parts to what was originally known as vitamin B have now come to be recognized. Most of these can be obtained in crystal-like form and their chemical structure is therefore known.

One of the most important of these is known as thiamine. Some foods are particularly rich in thiamine, including peas, beans, whole wheat, oatmeal, enriched flour and bread made from it, peanuts, and lean pork.

In human beings who are deprived of enough thiamine in the diet, there is a tendency to become irritable, depressed, quarrelsome, unco-operative and fearful (but not all of us can claim this excuse!). Serious deficiency of this vitamin produces a disease known as beriberi, one indication of which is damage to the heart and nervous system.

WILL SLOW GROWTH

Another part of the vitamin B complex is called riboflavin. An insufficient amount of this vitamin in the diet will slow the growth of young animals and produce skin inflammation and cataracts in rats.

The symptoms in man include inflammation of the lips, inflammation and reddening of the tongue, cracks at the corners of the mouth, inflammation of the skin and a particular kind of inflammation of the eyes. Liver, milk and cream and leafy vegetables are considered the best sources for this substance in the human diet.

Nicotinic acid (not to be confused with the nicotine in tobacco) is another important part of this complex. Absence of this substance produces a condition known as black tongue in dogs.

PELLAGRA IS RESULT

In human beings deficiency of this vitamin results in pellagra, a condition characterized by weakness, loss of appetite and indigestion, loss of energy, and, in the later stages, soreness and ulcerations in the mouth, together with diarrhea. A typical skin lesion is common. The best sources of nicotinic acid are yeast, lean meats and liver.

Although those parts of the vitamin B-6 complex mentioned are perhaps the best known, there are a number of others. They include vitamin B (pantothenic acid, which seems to restore normal hair color to some animals which have white hair, but not to human beings) choline, biotin and folic acid.

Another known as vitamin B-12 is most important in the treatment of pernicious anemia. It is probably this substance which is the active portion of liver used so successfully for many years in the treatment of that disease.

Princess Norah Tests Boilers In Straits Run

Ss. Princess Norah of the CPR's B.C. Coast Service tried out here new boilers during steaming trials in Juan de Fuca Strait Thursday.

The 20-year-old ship was laid up for repairs and boiler examination late last September, and it was decided to install new boilers and undertake extensive work to her hull.

Boilers were made by John Inglis, Toronto, and shipped here via Saguenay Terminals' Ss. Sunmont. Repair work was done by Victoria Machinery Depot at the Bay Street plant and in government graving dock, Esquimalt.

Norah, which went "back to sea" at 11 a.m. today after over three months under repair, is expected to have many more years of useful service ahead of her. When trials are completed, she will return to the Kitimat-Vancouver service, releasing Princess Louise for the Vancouver-Alaska summer schedule.

Officials Elected By Congregation

Congregation of St. Martin's-in-the-Field held its annual meeting earlier this week.

The various organizations of the church reported good progress and the vicar, Rev. S. J. Wickens, announced Dr. A. J. Saich will be vicar's warden for the ensuing year.

H. C. Caldicott was the unanimous choice for people's warden. R. R. F. Sewell will be an honorary member of the church committee, which includes: Flt. Lieut. Gordon Smith, E. E. Foster, S. K. Kanson, J. Atkinson, A. F. C. Watts, T. T. Carpenter, Ivan Hawes and S. Averill.

Messrs. Hanson, Caldicott and Carpenter were selected delegates to the Synod and Mrs. A. J. Saich and Mrs. S. Averill named to the Rural Decanal Conference.

Refreshments followed the meeting.

Late Clem Davies' Daughter Of Tobacco Road Coming

The daughter of the late Dr. Clem Davies, noted evangelist, will return to her home-town of Victoria next week to play the leading role in the York Theatre Company's production of "Hay Fever."

Miss Dorothy Davies, who lived in Victoria until about six years ago, now is with the Avon Theatre in Vancouver. She was director of the play "Tobacco Road," which police closed last week because they thought it lewd and obscene.

Miss Davies was arrested with members of the cast when a police morality squad raided the theatre and made their arrests as the play went on.

The group is to come to trial in Vancouver police court next Thursday.

Miss Davies defense will be that the Avon group was attempting an "honest presentation" of the play, as it was intended by the author.

Miss Davies was recruited to take the role of Judith in the York's "Hay Fever," by York director, Jack Ammon. Mr. Ammon will play opposite, in the part of Richard Greatham.

Others in the Noel Coward play will be Richard Tabor, as Sandy Tyrrel, a boxer; Mary Hincks, as Jackie Coryton; Gwen Downes, Clara; Harry Howard, David Bliss, and Monica Dudley, as Myra Arandul.

Beer Served On the Roll

CHILLIWACK (BUP) — Two waiters, wheeling about the tile floor of the Royal Hotel here on roller skates, Thursday night served beer to amazed, and perhaps befuddled customers. They said it was a protest against the government's new order of only one glass to a customer at a time.

"There's nothing in the books to prevent it," said Tony Britton.

Jack Culford, the other half of the duo, agreed.

"We can cut out leg work by 60 per cent," said Culford, "and we're both pretty good on skates so nobody gets hurt. In fact, I think we're giving good entertainment.

"We can even make change on the fly," he said.

Lives Through Ordeal, Will Return

A nightmarish excursion by dog sled in an Arctic blizzard failed to daunt the spirits of Mrs. James Houston, who wants to go right back. The wife of a Toronto illustrator, Mrs. Houston made the two-day sleigh trip from a remote Baffinland outpost after being stricken with appendicitis more than 100 miles from Cape Dorset, closest point of medical aid. From Dorset, an RCAF rescue plane flew her to Montreal, where she is now convalescing. The pretty brunette, seen above, is anxious to rejoin her husband in the Arctic, where they are encouraging the Eskimos in developing handicraft arts.

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss) BB (Worthwhile) (B For Rainy Days) C (To put in time)

(OSCAR CLASS) "THE MAGIC BOX" (Odeon): If you thrill to an authentic story (as in this case, the story of the man who invented the modern day moving picture) and can find the spectacular in the unspectacular, I think you will agree with the above "Oscar" rating and put this one down as among the finest plays of the year.

J. Arthur Rank star Robert Donat is no mean actor. He ranks with the best of all time in his profession. Who can forget him in the dynamic Dumas epic, "The Count of Monte Cristo" or as the sad but gallant English schoolmaster in "Good-bye Mr. Chips"? For this last-mentioned Hollywood honored him with its highest award in 1939, naming him Academy Award winner and outstanding actor of that year.

Donat is an actor in the fine tradition. As William Friese-Greene, originator of the modern moving pictrue, he is young as a portrait photographer, grows old as the successful yet disillusioned inventor. The man is a miracle. His knees sag a little more, his feet drag, his voice becomes pitched a little higher and faintly querulous.

Matching Donat in their own way are two tremendously capable female actors, Margaret Johnston and Maria Schell, who play Friese-Greene's wives. Add to these a cast of more than 60 British stars, such as Stanley Holloway, Glynis Johns, Laurence Olivier, Cecil Parker, Michael Redgrave, Peter Ustinov, Kay Walsh, and you have a picture that is outstanding.

Biggest thrill for this reviewer was Friese-Greene, after his years of research, work, disappointment, summing up enough courage to turn the crank of his invention, his beloved camera. What happens then is quite unforgettable and will live—for me at least—for a long, long time.

Every now and then I'm quite alone in my ratings. I may be alone in this one. I'm given to understand that the show hasn't exactly been packing them in. Why, I can't tell you. For me it was one of the finest pictures I have seen over the past couple of years. Let's have more like it. Unfortunately it ends today.

CONFUSION ON CAMPUS

Caught With Sails Down, College Lacks Commodore

By DINAH KERR
Times College Reporter

What is the nearest thing at Victoria College to a Yacht Club Commodore? The student council, momentarily caught with its sails down, has come forward with Walt Young, men's athletic representative.

This situation would never have arisen but for a letter from the University of Washington, addressed to the "Commodore, Victoria College Yacht Club," inviting the college to participate in a yacht race on Lake Washington, Feb. 28. They will supply the yacht and Colin Baker, college sophomore, will pilot it — under the blue and gold college colors.

Men undergraduates Wednesday chose sophomore Jack Ward by acclamation as president of their society. His average of 79.5 at Christmas well exceeds the required standing of 65 per cent.

With the co-ed dance announced for Feb. 13, the women's commons at Victoria College has the feverish activity of a stock market just before the '29 crash. Available boys' names are listed and as the girls make their bid they are required to place their initials by their choice. No one will be allowed to corner the market.

In competition with the weekly "Noon Record" edited by an English professor, and in addition to the magazine "Martlet," student Walt Young will begin publication of a paper sponsored by the student council. The purpose of this edition is to stimulate interest in coming affairs. It will also feature editorials dealing with controversial subjects.

Church Builders' Debt Load Light

History of the erection of Cordova Bay United Church last summer highlights the first annual report presented to the congregation by Rev. C. E. Rogers, minister, and Arthur H. Randell, treasurer.

"We have succeeded in erecting a pleasant little church and doing it without a crushing burden of debt for this and succeeding congregations to carry," Mr. Randell said. "We only owe $2,100 and this spread over 10 years."

He and Mr. Rogers praised the efforts of Rev. W. H. Day, who began the work in the parish, and Rev. A. M. Angus, under whose leadership the church was erected.

"The backbone of our church is the Sunday school and we would lay this work upon your heart," they stated in their joint report.

Church membership stands at 37. Two marriage services were held, seven burial services conducted and three baptismal services. The church was dedicated Oct. 5.

TWINS ARE 96

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Twin sisters, Mrs. Margaret Whalen of Helena and Mrs. Jessie Hartley of Palo Alto, Calif., observed their 96th birthday today. Mrs. Whalen planned to cut a cake in her Helena home. Mrs. Hartley lives with a granddaughter, Mrs. Ruth Clark. They hope for a June reunion when Mrs. Whalen plans to move to California.

Failure Outnumber Successes When Suicide Attempted

Eleven Victorians committed suicide last year and 13 others failed in attempts to take their own lives, a survey of police records reveal.

Police classed the 1952 figures as "about normal" for a year.

The successful suicide cases were of both sexes, a number of them in the 60-and-over age bracket.

Eleven women and two men made unsuccessful attempts to end their lives. Youngest in this group was a 28-year-old woman, ages of others reaching upward into the 70's.

All the attempt cases appeared in court and received suspended sentences, placed on bond to be of good behavior for six months or a year.

Cut Week, Same Pay Recommended for Cowichan Workers

DUNCAN — North Cowichan municipal employees will win a 40-hour work week this year, with the same pay as that received last year for a 44-hour week, if they accept the recommendation of their negotiators.

They will meet tonight to consider acceptance of the municipality's terms.

Roy Wootten, Victoria business agent, and other union men met the council Thursday night to arrive at terms which will include the new pay schedule, and payment for nine statutory holidays and Coronation Day.

Pay has been adjusted as follows: laborers, $1.25 per hour to $1.38; truck drivers, $1.30 to $1.43; gradermen, rollermen, engineers, mechanics, tractor and crusher operators, $1.50 to $1.65.

STILL RADIO ACTIVE

PERTH, Australia (Reuters) —The Monte Bello Islands where Britain exploded her first atomic bomb last Oct. 3 are still radio-active, Capt. Bryce Morris, naval officer in charge, Western Australia, said today. Entry into the area, off Australia's northwest coast, will be prohibited for an indefinite period, he said.

Los Angeles Baptists To Hear Dr. J. Rowell

Dr. J. B. Rowell, pastor of Central Baptist, left today for a week's ministry in Los Angeles in response to an invitation from the Los Angeles Baptist Theological Seminary and the Alumni Association.

Dr. Rowell is due to give the Seminary convocation address and is announced to be guest speaker at the alumni banquet and to give lectures to the student body.

Dr. Rowell has also been invited to take part in the Torrey Memorial Bible Conference in connection with the Bible Institute of Los Angeles.

Peek at Iron Curtain Land Enough for British Seaman

A British seaman who has had a brief glimpse at a Russian satelite country has pronounced his judgment: "I don't like it."

The sailor, C. P. Robert, a wireless operator aboard a British freighter, recently called at Danzig in Poland. While there he wrote a letter to his friend, Clarence Farris, photographic chief for B.C. Travel Bureau in Victoria.

"This is the first time I have been in one of the so-called 'iron curtain" countries," Mr. Roberts wrote, "and I never wish to see another."

The seamen said two armed guards, with Tommy guns and beyonets, were posted on the dock to maintain a 24-hour vigil.

"I have been ashore once and that's enough for me," he wrote. "I never saw such a dismal and depressing country."

"I can tell you that it is easier to get out of Alcatraz or other such 'colleges' than to get aboard this ship without all the necessary permits from security authorities. The same applies to getting off."

If some of the "Communist cranks" in England, Canada and the U.S. could see such a country for themselves, he concluded, they would soon change their minds about what was the best way of life.

BRIDGE LESSON

—By Oswald Jacoby

Bridge experts are a versatile group, so when I wasn't especially surprised when my friend, Albert Morehead, recently brought out a book of crossword puzzles. They are good puzzles, to be sure, but I will probably continue to think of Morehead primarily as a first-class bridge player and bridge writer.

In today's hand, Morehead's skill as a player is demonstrated. When West opened the queen of diamonds, against Morehead's logical contract of four of hearts, he resisted the temptation to cover with dummy's king.

Such a play would, of course, establish dummy's ten of diamonds. The trouble was, however, that East would immediately switch to clubs after winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds. The defenders would thereupon take three club tricks to set the contract immediately.

When Morehead played a low diamond from the dummy at the first trick East naturally played a low diamond from his hand. He assumed that his partner was leading from diamonds headed by the queen and jack, and East wasn't even sure that South would follow suit to the first trick.

East could have been a hero by playing the ace of diamonds, anyway, he cannot be blamed for falling to make this miraculous play.

After West won the first trick with the queen of diamonds, no further defense could defeat the contract. West actually shifted to a trump, as good a defense as any, whereupon Morehead drew three rounds of trumps ending in dummy. He then led the king of diamonds from the dummy, ruffing out East's ace.

It was now simple to discard one club on the ten of diamonds, run five spades in order to discard all clubs from dummy, and ruff a club in dummy. Morehead thus won 11 tricks instead of being set one.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

Radio times and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

By RAY SIDAWAY

Saturday's Metropolitan Opera broadcast will present "Aida," by Verdi. This spectacular opera will be heard over CBU at 11 a.m.

In this broadcast the title role of Aida will be sung by Zinka Milanov. Mezzo Fedora Barbiera will sing Amneris and the part of Aida's lover, Radames, will be taken by tenor Mario del Monaco. Lubomir Vichegonov, bass, will be heard as the king, while other roles will be sung by George London, Jerome Hines, Thomas Hayward and Lucine Amara.

The producers of Ford Theatre, tonight on CJOR and CJVI at 6, have long been intrigued with the idea of presenting the Stevenson classic, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," on the radio. The nature of the story, well known to all, is such that it presents a special challenge and a rare opportunity for a tour de force in acting. With this in mind, Len Peterson has prepared an exciting radio version of the story especially for Ford Theatre. This literary masterpiece of Stevenson's should prove to be as exciting as last season's performance of another unusual story, "Johnny Belinda." In that play, the leading character did not speak at all. In "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" the leading character must assume two roles.

Two electronic scientists, exiled from Germany, are being forced to reveal their secrets to a foreign country on "Rocky Jordan" tonight on KIRO at 6.

Rocky helps them to escape in the thrilling "Mystery of Carl Kleist" story. Jack Moyles is heard as Jordan.

TONIGHT'S HIGHLIGHTS: Plays—"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," on Ford Theatre, on CJOR and CJVI at 6. . . . Music—Club 15, on KIRO at 9.30, with Bob Crosby and Gisele Mackenzie. . . . Mystery—Yours Truly, Johnny Dollar, on KIRO at 6.30, and Crime Letter, on KJR at 8.

Rails Ask Strike Settlement Talk

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's railways today proposed a "full discussion" on the wage dispute with the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen because "it is urgently necessary that a further effort be made to avert a strike."

New Tire May Outwear Auto

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. said today it has basic patents on a new type of synthetic rubber to make automobile tire treads which "could easily outwear the automobile itself."

Nanaimo Tot to Receive $12,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — A four-year-old Nanaimo boy, Robin Burdett Garrard, will have $12,000 in court, accumulating interest, until he is 21, as compensation for head injuries he received in a traffic accident June 10, 1951.

Mr. Justice H. S. Wood today approved of the settlement for a total of $14,213 offered by John E. Hamilton, Willow Point, in the suit brought against him by Robin's father, Patrick W. B. Garrard.

Sloan 'Embarrassed' By Political Talk

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan said today a report that he would be asked to lead the B.C. Liberal party had appeared in print without his knowledge and had "distressed" him in his position as head of the bench.

The chief justice issued a brief statement in reference to the report, which appeared in Thursday's Times stating that the rank and file of the party are talking of a "draft Sloan" move at their convention in Vancouver Feb. 27 and 28, to choose a new leader.

Mr. Sloan made no direct comment, in his statement, as to what his reaction might be to the "draft" movement, other than to point out that before he could entertain anything of the sort he would first have to resign from the Appeal Court.

In Liberal circles supporters of the "Sloan for leader" move were quick to point out that his statement did not close the door on the possibility he might accept the leadership if the convention asks him.

Full text of Mr. Sloan's statement follows:

"I was distressed by the story in the Times wherein I was mentioned as a possible leader of the Liberal party in this province. I was not consulted and knew nothing of it before its publication. Since my appointment to the bench I have, of course, completely disassociated myself from politics. While I cannot stop rumors and speculation, no word or action of mine has given countenance to such rumors, nor encouragement to such speculation.

"If I should ever seek political preferment, which is very far indeed from my desire and intention, I shall consider it my first duty to resign from the bench.

"I earnestly hope that there be no further publication of political speculations concerning myself, which as far as I am concerned are without foundation, for the reason that these comments can result only in embarrassment to me in my present position."

Strange Virus Claims Sixth Tacoma Infant

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A deadly virus which strikes down its victims within 48 hours claimed another child here, the sixth Tacoma infant to die of the infection in the last month. Dr. Frank James, Pierce county coroner, said he "was almost positive that the three-month-old child was the victim of a combination of "virus pneumonia with a superimposed pneumococcic lobar pneumonia."

Hensler Goes to Police

MONTREAL (BUP) — Quebec provincial police disclosed that Fred Hensler, suspected of stealing a draft copy of the Currie report, has surrendered.

Hensler, who had been sought since a warrant was issued on Thursday, gave himself up in Montreal.

Hensler's arrest came after police questioned his wife on his whereabouts today. She told them that he had left his Verdun, Que., home Thursday. She says he told her: "Don't worry about anything."

A warrant was issued Thursday for Hensler's arrest. It was sworn out by an employee of Montreal accountant George Currie—the author of the report. The warrant touched off a police search throughout the city.

An RCMP investigation was launched about two weeks ago when the unedited version of the report found its way into the hands of socialist leader M. J. Coldwell before it was tabled in parliament.

Both the CCF headquarters in Ottawa and the Quebec provincial branch say they have never seen Hensler nor heard of him.

5 DEAD AS AUTO HITS ROCKSLIDE

Car Carrying Six Slides Off Trans-Canada Highway Near Hope Into Lake of The Woods

HOPE, B.C. (BUP)—Five carpenters drowned today when their car smashed into a rockslide in a pelting rain storm and plunged off the Trans-Canada Highway into tiny Lake of the Woods, three miles east of Hope.

The driver, Matthew Offer of Hope, was thrown clear before his 1946 sedan crashed into 15 feet of water about 7 a.m. He walked to the nearby resort settlement named after the lake and reported the tragedy.

Police recovered the bodies of the five victims: Mathias Sbenrood, Mas Mukaida, Zion Edward Seward, Minto George Currie and John Fraser MacPhail, all of Hope.

Several days of heavy rain caused the rockslide that the car hit moments after topping a crest overlooking the lake. The rain had partly turned to snow and the highway near the entrance to the Fraser Canyon was slippery.

Police said Offer, driving in early morning dusk with his lights on, could not stop in time to avoid rocks strewn on the highway by the slide. The car hit a big boulder and toppled into the lake.

Hope is 99 miles east of Vancouver.

The carpenters were en route to Chaote, where they were employed on a construction project in connection with a new mining development of Western Nickel Ltd.

Fuel Dealers See No Crisis From Strikes

Only a combination of rail and coal miners' strikes and a prolonged cold spell could upset the apparently stable fuel situation in Victoria, according to local dealers.

In Vancouver, dealers fear that light stockpiles occasioned by the mild winter might be threatened if Alberta coal miners walk off the job Feb. 16, and a railway strike breaks out Feb. 2.

"We have enough coal on hand for normal requirements," said one Victoria dealer. "Only a really cold February could cause us trouble."

Another was even more optimistic.

"Once we are through February we are safe enough," he said. "We have a three-week supply on hand and are anxious to get rid of it before the mild weather comes."

Oil fuel supplies are not threatened, since a large part of it is carried by ship from California to Vancouver refineries, then by barge to Victoria.

Health Dept. Is Prepared

The provincial health department has alerted local health agencies throughout British Columbia to be on the lookout for any abnormal increases in influenza cases.

Flu' in recent days has laid low millions of persons in the United States and Great Britain, but has not appeared in strength in B.C.

A health department official said today all health services have been notified to watch the situation closely. Local agencies, he said, are working closely with local doctors and hospitals so that an increase in 'flu cases will be immediately noticed.

"We are prepared in B.C.," he declared. "To date, we haven't recorded any unusual quantity of 'flu cases—just the normal seasonal amount."

Other authorities warned citizens to avoid over-fatigue as one good safeguard against infection.

"If either a youngster or an adult contact virus infection, bed is the best cure of all," one authority said.

Naguib Calls On Egypt to Oust Britons

By L. S. CHAKALES

CAIRO (AP)—Premier Mohammed Neguib today assailed British policy in Egypt and proclaimed a "Liberation Society" to achieve unity with the Sudan and evacuation of all foreign forces from the Nile valley.

A crowd estimated at 100,000 in Cairo's Liberation Square heard the soldier-premier declare that the end of British imperialism in the Nile lands is near.

As a 21-gun salvo boomed, the crowd repeated after him a Liberation Society oath asking Allah for mercy on "those who prefer death in their struggle for liberty rather than to live a mean life under slavery." The oath pledged the "utmost to establish our nation's future life on a new basis free of slavery and selfishness under the aegis of justice."

Naguib's speech, broadcast through the country, and a military review launched a four-day "liberation" celebration marking the army's coup which last July 23 overthrew King Farouk.

Green and white Egyptian flags bedecked the streets. Jet planes and bombers roared overhead. The city's 1,000 mosques were to remain open day and night to shelter pilgrims with no other place to sleep.

NO VIOLENCE

Police and soldiers, many of them armed with sub-machine-guns, patrolled the city in cars and trucks, but there was no violence.

The celebration came less than 24 hours after Naguib and fellow army officers controlling the government with him ordered another army officer shot on a charge of plotting an armed forces rebellion against the government.

Naguib shouted to the vast throng today that Britain's policy since occupying the country in 1882 had been to create dissension among the Egyptians so the British could dominate the Nile Valley. He asserted that the new Liberation Society would achieve the unity of all factions of Egypt and the "unity of Egypt with the Sudan."

NORTH EUROPE, ENGLAND, HIT BY EPIDEMIC

LONDON (AP)—Epidemics of influenza, mostly mild in nature, gripped parts of Europe and much of the U.S. today but health authorities said there is little to worry about yet.

Britain's health ministry reported scattered epidemics of mild virus influenza in south and central England, but nothing like 1951 when more than 8,000 died.

Deaths in 60 major English cities during the week ended Jan. 10 numbered 51 compared to 886 deaths in the corresponding week of 1951, the epidemic year. The health ministry said fatalities thus far this winter are only slightly above normal.

Flu in West Germany hit hardest in Bavaria where deaths now total 20. Many thousands of others are ill.

Similar conditions prevail in France but there are no official figures on fatalities or the number of cases. A few days ago, it was unofficially estimated that half of the students in Paris schools were absent and ill with flu.

Danish health officials said there is no real epidemic in Denmark yet but warned the number of cases is growing and the situation may become serious.

Reports from Belgium, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Italy and Switzerland, said there were no epidemics and the number of cases was normal for the time of year. The Pope was stricken with flu in the Vatican Thursday but was receiving callers today.

Flu—or what feels like flu—has spread to more than half of the 48 states in the U.S. but outbreaks have been generally mild.

Vancouver Stocks Closing Prices

Stocks were strong in light volume of trading at Vancouver Exchange in the final session today.

Mining issues attracted some investment support. Western Tungsten sold higher at $4.20; Estella was stronger at 77c; Quatsino 54c; Doreen 31½c.

In the oils, New Continental sold at $1.29; Home $11¾.

New Vaccine Being Tried

A test on 100 persons with a new flu vaccine began in Victoria today, Dr. J. L. Gayton, city and Esquimalt medical health officer, reported.

The new vaccine is designed to protect Canadians against influenza of a type raging in Europe and parts of the United States and is being tested across Canada.

Dr. Gayton added that at present there is no evidence of the "epidemic type of influenza" here.

According to Dr. Gayton the vaccine is a "mixture of three types of influenza virus." The test is being made "on young adults," selected at random.

"The vaccine has been tested before in parts of the United States and the results are encouraging," he stated.

NOT GENERAL USE

Dr. Gayton stressed, however, that health authorities here have not the vaccine for general use—merely for the test.

At Toronto, Dr. R. D. Defries, a University of Toronto scientist, announced that the new vaccine against influenza is being tested on university students.

Defries, director of the school of hygiene, said tests on the first groups would be finished in April and if the vaccine was successful it would be more widely available.

Steady Rains Bring Floods To Low Lands

Persistent rains this month have saturated low-lying areas of Saanich. Hundreds of acres in Heals Valley, Sluggett Valley and along the peninsula's east side, as well as many small holdings, are under water.

Steady rain that dropped 1.7 inches on the district Thursday and early today flooded Panama Flats to their greatest depth so far this winter.

"There is also some water in the Marigold and Blenkinsop areas, but no one has been inconvenienced yet," said Henry Blakeny, superintendent of works.

City, Oak Bay and Esquimalt reported only a few flooded basements; no general flooding.

Rainfall to date this month is now 8.37 inches. Normal for the whole month is 4.25 inches.

Bunting Keeps Tiny Firm Busy

They're busy with the Coronation bunting at William Parrack's tiny (17 employees) textile printing firm in Rochford, Essex County, Eng. Parrack hopes that by April he will have completed the job of turning out 10 miles of bunting and banners. They will decorate the route Queen Elizabeth will travel on the way to her coronation. Above, four women begin hanging up the first long line of monumental wash. All of the flags must be dried outside as the small plant has no drying room. For the next few months, neighbors will see Union Jacks, red-and-white ensigns, and the colors of Scotland, Ireland and Wales flutter from the long lines each day.

In his will, published today, he arranged for the money to be held for them until they reach "an age of common sense"—50 years. The son and daughters are 28 and 26.

'DISGUSTING AND DANGEROUS'

Duncan Tract Irks British

Labor MP Asks Action Against Pamphlet Published on Island

LONDON (Reuters)—Home Secretary David Maxwell Fyfe Thursday condemned as anti-Semitic pamphlet circulating here from Duncan, B.C., as "obnoxious," but added he did not see any action he could take against it.

Labor member Anthony Greenwood had asked in the House of Commons if the government would take action on the matter.

The pamphlet, entitled "Plans of the Synagogue of Satan," contains anti-Jewish propaganda "of a disgusting and dangerous kind," Greenwood said.

There is no name in the copies, but they are postmarked Duncan, B.C.

Greenwood said he and other members of parliament were among those who received them.

The Home Secretary said he did not think "this anonymous and obnoxious rigmarole represents a danger which calls for further action on my part."

ANTI-JEWISH

The eight-page pamphlet, Greenwood said, purports to provide a report from behind the Iron Curtain, in which rabbis are said to be planning to produce a third world war, at the end of which the Jews will be triumphant.

"One of the objects of this is said to be that white and black races will be forced to intermarry," he said, adding:

"It is quite a fantastic document. I hope the Canadian authorities will keep the matter under consideration. I don't know if there is anything they can do about it."

RCMP headquarters here said they had no knowledge of the pamphlet. Attorney-General Robert Bonner was in Vancouver and could not be reached for comment.

Taximen May Ask Right to Deliver Liquor

Late-Hour Opening Changes Situation

Taxi-firms in Victoria may ask government permission to make deliveries of liquor and beer to private homes.

The B.C. Liquor Act prohibits taxis from transporting liquor.

Taxi drivers are allowed, however, to purchase any other kind of article from a retail outlet and deliver it, charging the regular taxi fare for the service.

J. W. Dobbie, partner in Black & Wihte Taxi, said today representatives of several cab companies here had met to discuss the matter.

"We feel that we should be allowed to make liquor deliveries too. Now that a liquor store is being kept open to 11 p.m., we should be allowed to extend our service," he said.

"A person having a party could phone a taxi office and ask that a bottle be bought for him and delivered."

Mr. Dobbie conceded that the matter of persons on the government interdict list seeking to take advantage of the service might be a problem but he thought this could be overcome.

"When a person phoned, we could take their name as well as address and give it to the liquor store attendant when the purchase was made. They could check the interdict list there to see everything was all right."

The report, published in Rome's Momento Sera, said Montgomery "reportedly has the official capacity of a secret extraordinary ambassador from the government of London to the Holy See."

U.S. Airmen May Face Spy Charges

TOKYO (UP)—American officials said today that Chinese Communists might be laying the groundwork for a propaganda "spy trial" of 11 American airmen shot down in a B-29 near the Mancuhrian border Jan. 12.

Three other crew members were killed when the plane was attacked. The 11 survivors parachuted to safety.

Peiping radio, Red propaganda organ, said the plane was shot down over Korea and thatthe 11 officers and men who parachuted out of it were "special agents sent by the U.S. government" to "organize sabotage."

The U.S. Air Force said the plane was attacked by enemy fighters 15 miles south of the Yalu River, well within Korean territory, but could have crash-landed in Manchuria after being crippled and downed by enemy bullets.

Last Two Jewish Community Heads Flee Iron Curtain

BERLIN (CP) — East Germany's last two Jewish community leaders fled to West Berlin today.

They stayed behind until the last moment to help organize group escapes of other Jews in East Germany, a Jewish spokesman said here.

The spokesman refused to identify the two community heads.

All six Jewish leaders in East Germany now have reached West Berlin. Four others fled here Jan. 14.

The Russian zone's drive toward complete bolshevism also sent two more East German government officials fleeing to West Berlin today. They had served as connecting links between the Red regime and the Protestant and Catholic churches.

They were identified by refugee headquarters as a Mr. Bernhard, of the Eastern Christian Democrats CDU, and a Mr. Liebrecht of the Liberal Democratic party.

Sloan 'Embarrassed' By Political Talk

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan said today a report that he would be asked to lead the B.C. Liberal party had appeared in print without his knowledge and had "distressed" him in his position as head of the bench.

The chief justice issued a brief statement in reference to the report, which appeared in Thursday's Times stating that the rank and file of the party are talking of a "draft Sloan" move at their convention in Vancouver Feb. 27 and 28, to choose a new leader.

Mr. Sloan made no direct comment, in his statement, as to what his reaction might be to the "draft" movement, other than to point out that before he could entertain anything of the sort he would first have to resign from the Appeal Court.

In Liberal circles supporters of the "Sloan for leader" move were quick to point out that his statement did not close the door on the possibility he might accept the leadership if the convention asks him.

Full text of Mr. Sloan's statement follows:

"I was distressed by the story in the Times wherein I was mentioned as a possible leader of the Liberal party in this province. I was not consulted and knew nothing of it before its publication. Since my appointment to the bench I have, of course, completely disassociated myself from politics. While I cannot stop rumors and speculation, no word or action of mine has given countenance to such rumors, nor encouragement to such speculation.

"If I should ever seek political preferment, which is very far indeed from my desire and intention, I shall consider it my first duty to resign from the bench.

"I earnestly hope that there be no further publication of political speculations concerning myself, which as far as I am concerned are without foundation, for the reason that these comments can result only in embarrassment to me in my present position."

ITS WINGS FLAP

Strange Craft Ready to Test

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—A flying machine with moving wings is ready for a trial flight at this southeastern Alberta city.

Called an ornithopter, the 280-pound machine made of metal and balso wood has two sets of wings.

"It will be the closest approximation to bird flight ever designed by man," said James E. Caldwell, the inventor-engineer.

It was constructed by Hartley D. Shannon, a Medicine Hat business man who is an aeronautical engineer. It will be piloted by William Francis of Medicine Hat Air Services on its test flights.

"In principle," said Mr. Shannon, "If this model is what we hope it is, the cost of air transport would be cut down to the cycle class."

In appearance the 'thopter is radical in design from modern airplanes, helicopters and gliders. Its main feature consists of the four wings or flaps which simulate a bird's locomotive and gliding power. Each wing is eight feet long and five feet from lead to tail edge.

The pilot sits front and centre and there are two wings on each side of him. The wings move one foot both up and down from normal position. Behind the pilot's seat is a 12-horsepower motor which Mr. Shannon says is more than ample for the lifting power required.
